FOR NATIONAL SECURITY—

The Artillery School

By MAJ. GEN. J. M. SWING, USA*

FIRE power: its source and its employment—this is the major concern of The Artillery School.

Artillerymen believe that fire in battle is fundamental, and they see tremendous opportunities in modern developments for increasing the volume of effective fire against all types of targets. They see also increased possibilities for coordinating this fire—fire from all types of fire units—in support of the maneuvering arms, Infantry and Armor.

Maj. Gen. Swing

It is the purpose of The Artillery School to exploit to the maximum these possibilities for increased and improved fire support.

In fulfilling its mission of providing leadership in developing the principles of fire support, The Artillery School serves as an informed and constructive source of American Artillery doctrine, techniques, and trends. At the same time, it gives instruction in artillery and allied subjects to both resident and non-resident students.

The Artillery School is the branch school for all artillerymen. It was organized in its present form in 1947 as a part of the post-war integration of the Field Artillery and the Coast Artillery. The Field Artillery School at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, was redesignated The Artillery School, with Antiaircraft and Guided Missile Branch at Fort Bliss, Texas, and Sea-coast Branch at Fort Winfield Scott, California. The latter branch has since been discontinued.

To plan for future trends in artillery, based on the lessons of World War II, an artillery conference was held shortly after the war at The Artillery School. Senior artillery commanders from all theatres and all major commands attended. The report of this conference has been especially valuable in formulating recommended changes in artillery doctrine.

A similar conference was held in 1948 and another will be held this spring at Fort Bliss. These conferences enable fac-

JCS Makes Resurvey of U.S. Air Strength

As debate in the House of Representatives began on the defense chapter of the General Appropriations Bill, Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson announced on 4 April that the Joint Chiefs of Staff were studying the needs for additional funds for a modern 48-Group Air Force, as advocated by General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower and Chairman Carl Vinson, (D-Ga.), of the House Armed Services Committee.

In testimony before the Senate Appropriations Committee, followed by a letter to the Committee, General Eisenhower had urged consideration of increased appropriations for aircraft procurement, for Alaskan defenses, for anti-submarine protection, and for intelligence and industrial mobilization activities.

Representative Vinson in a vigorous speech in the House proposed to add more than $583 million to the Appropriation Bill for new planes for the Air Force and the Navy. Mr. Vinson would allot $200 million to the Air Force and the remainder to the Navy. He took Secretary Johnson severely to task for cutting the Armed Forces in the interest of economy.

At about the time that Mr. Vinson released the text of his speech Mr. Johnson held a press conference at which he discussed the proposals of General Eisenhower for strengthening our defenses. He told the reporters that there were no fundamental differences between him and General Eisenhower relative to the need for a strong and modern Military Establishment.

The Secretary said that he had a friendly telephone conversation with General Eisenhower and told him of the current steps being taken to meet the more pressing needs of National Security. Mr. Johnson said he felt that most, if not all, urgent requirements could be met within the budget now before the Congress.

However, the Secretary said he had requested the Joint Chiefs of Staff to re-study the need for additional aircraft, in view of the recommendations of General Eisenhower and Representative Vinson. If more planes are needed, he said, he would request the Congress to provide the funds. The Secretary expects to appear before the Senate Appropriations Committee next week, when he will present the views of the Joint Chiefs.

Referring to General Eisenhower's concern over Alaskan defenses the Secretary said that funds for a radar screen had been authorized and that the construction program for Alaska was under way. Funds now available and those requested for 1951, he said, would be sufficient to provide for the garrisons recommended for that territory by the Joint Chiefs. The total of $135 million available or requested, he indicated, was all that could be profitably expended in the short construction season in that region.

The anti-submarine program, Mr. Johnson said, is well provided for in the pending budget, and additional funds are not urgently needed at this time. He said that intelligence activities are largely

Army Promotion List

Continuing publication of the promotion list standing of every Regular Army Officer, begun in last week's issue, THE JOURNAL today makes available the promotion list standing of the 3699 majors on the USA Promotion List.

Last week, the names of all general officers and all colonels and lieutenant colonels on the Army Promotion List were published.

In subsequent issues, other promotion lists, as officially used by the Army, will be printed. Again, readers are urged to save these lists, which will be invaluable in checking the action of selection board proceedings.

The current issue of the Army Register does not give this information.

As of 1 Jan., the date of the official compilation of the promotion list, the ranking permanent major was James P. Maloney, whose sequence number on the overall Army Promotion List is No. 3998. His date of permanent rank is 11 July 1944, with date of rank as a temporary lieutenant colonel from 27 July 1942. On 30 June 1949, he had 21 years and 11 months' service.

The junior officer on the Majors' Promotion List is Harry C. Fields, Jr., who is No. 7696 on the overall precedence list and No. 3699 on the list of majors. He was made a temporary major on 1 Sept. 1944 and has held permanent rank since 2 Jan. 1949. He had 11 years' service on 30 June.

Analysis of official promotion data reveals that five officers among the first 25 on the Majors' Promotion List hold temporary rank as colonel. They are Charles

Army Temporary Promotions

A long-standing freeze on the temporary promotion of Army officers is expected to thaw late this Spring or in early Summer.

Although no official announcements have been made as yet, indications are that the temporary promotion of a number of Army lieutenant colonels to the rank of colonel, slated for early release, will be followed by temporary advancements in other ranks.

It is believed that these temporary promotions will be effected in all grades, except that of captain. At the present time, the Army has a considerable overage in the rank of captain and temporary promotions to that grade probably will be delayed.

Stabilization of Army strength, foretold by House Appropriations Committee action on the 1951 budget, has made it possible for Army personnel experts to obtain preliminary Congressional confirmation for their long-range plans, which have envisioned temporary promotions to fill vacancies this year.

Presumably, an official statement will be forthcoming shortly concerning the plans for temporary promotions. It is not expected, however, that such an announcement will be made until the temporary advancements to the rank of colonel are released following selections for permanent promotion to that grade.

Hospital Shut-Down "Bad Bill of Goods"

As the special hospital subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee this week concluded its 7,000-mile on-the-site inspection of major military medical facilities ordered to be closed by 1 July, there were these new disturbing developments related to adequate medical care for military personnel and their dependents:

1. Representative L. Mendel Rivers (D-SC), subcommittee chairman, asserted that Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson has been "sold a bad bill of goods" and warned that the hospital closings and curtailments "might turn into a national scandal."

2. Responding to a telegram from Representative Clyde Doyle (D-Calif.), a member of the subcommittee, who called for a stop-order on the hospital economy drive, President Truman said "if we really want to make the income of the Government meet its expenditures the only way it can be done is to cut off some of those expenditures."

3. Another subcommittee member, Representative Paul W. Shafer (R-Mich) charged that a veteran died because he could not gain immediate admittance to Percy Jones General Hospital, Battle Creek, Mich., one of the major hospital facilities to be shut down.

4. The Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy warned that atomic bombing would produce large, if not unprecedented, civilian casualties, with a resulting "serious shortage" of hospital facilities.

5. Perturbed at action by the House Appropriations Committee in cutting more than $12,000,000 allocated for medical activities from the defense budget—the arbitrary slash was based upon economy estimates—the Department of Defense reportedly now will make serious efforts to regain at least half of this reduction to meet medical requirements.

Following the Congressional Easter recess, Representative Rivers is slated to resume the hospital hearings on Capitol Hill. He has stated that the subcommittee wants to question anew Dr. Richard L. Meiling, Department of Defense Director of Medical Services, who with a Defense budget expert, worked out the economy program. Testimony has shown that the Surgeons General of the Army, Navy and Air Force and Rear Adm. Joel T. Boone, USN, since relieved as the top military medical adviser to Dr. Meiling, were not consulted prior to formulation of the program.

At Waltham, Mass., site of Murphy General Hospital, which is to be inactivated, Representative Rivers said this week his subcommittee has traveled 7,000 miles "in quest of that mythical $25,000,000 they told us could be saved by closing them (five major hospitals—Valley Forge, GH, Pa.; Oliver GH, Ga., Long Beach, NH, Calif., in addition to Murphy GH and Percy Jones GH), and we haven't found five cents worth of saving yet."

At the Waltham hearing, Dr. James H. Townsend, chief of medical services, Mt.

Syracuse, N. Y., Herald-Journal—"In view of the rapid tempo of Soviet arming in other directions—on land, on sea and in the air—we can certainly deduce that they're pushing H-bomb construction. No choice is left save to improve and expand our own defenses."

Grand Rapids, Mich., Press—"We cannot rely on the possibility of getting an H-bomb to keep potential enemies in check. We must plan on the basis of the weapons we do have. At the moment there is some danger that the H-bomb will become a Maginot line."

Portland, Me., Press-Herald—"It seems strange to some people that we are so chary about giving (atomic) information to a nation, Great Britain, without whose scientists the bomb never could have been constructed. Others think it strange that we withhold information from anybody if the Russians already have the bomb and know as much as we do about the hydrogen bomb."

Memphis, Tenn., Commercial Appeal—"Companion bills pending in Senate and House would require that one AEC member have a service background, and there is a great deal of logic in a contention of the bill's sponsors that since so much of the commission's work is devoted to military matters, a military man, retired or active, should be appointed."

San Francisco Chronicle—"There are flaws in our armor—a grave one in the Far East—but the undeniable fact is that we have come far in our new development and we are still developing. If there is an answer to the problem posed by Russia, it must lie in maintaining and augmenting the momentum of this development."

Majors' Promotion List

The following are the names of the 3,699 Regular Army officers on the Majors' Promotion List and their precedence status as of 1 Jan. Last week's issue of THE JOURNAL published the names of all general officers and all colonels and lieutenant colonels on the Army Promotion List. Publication of the promotion list standings will continue in next week's issue and thereafter until the name of every Regular Army officer and his precedence standing is printed.

The New Secretaries

The reshuffling of top defense jobs continued this week as President Truman named Mr. Thomas K. Finletter, former chairman of the Air Policy Commission which advocated the 70-group Air Force, to succeed Mr. W. Stuart Symington as Secretary of the Air Force.

Widely lauded as an outstanding military secretary, Mr. Symington will become Chairman of the National Security Resources Board, a key post in the overall defense of the country.

Mr. Finletter's appointment, certain of speedy Senate confirmation, follows closely the selection of Budget Director Frank Pace, an Air Transport Command major in World War II, to be Secretary of the Army.

Mr. Pace will replace Secretary Gordon Gray, a former Army private who rose to the rank of captain during World War II, and who this Fall will become President of the University of North Carolina.

In the interim, the President has called upon Mr. Gray to direct the formulation of a plan to help foreign nations find funds for United States exports when the Marshall Plan expires in 1952. In this capacity, the retiring Army Secretary will serve as a Special Assistant to the President. The President told Mr. Gray his new task "is of major importance to this country."

Still to be named is a successor to Under Secretary of the Army Tracy S. Voorhees, who has submitted his resignation to the President.

Coming at a time when there is much dispute concerning the size of the Air Force and the air arm of the Navy, Mr. Finletter's appointment is expected to be an invaluable asset to defense planning. His work as chairman of the President's Air Policy Commission in 1947 and 1948 was characterized by a statesmanlike ability to comprehend all sides of the complex problem of air power in an atomic age.

Despite the fact that Mr. Finletter has urged a 70-group Air Force and the budget for fiscal year 1951 maintains the strength at only 48-groups, it is believed certain that the President and Mr. Finletter have come to a full understanding on this matter.

In this regard, it is significant that Mr. Symington has held consistently that the Air Force should have 70 groups, although he has acquiesced in a delay in this expansion to meet exigencies of the national economy.

In view of the exhaustive hearings held by the Air Policy Commission and its carefully worded report, Mr. Finletter doubtless will not soon abandon his belief that the nation's defenses require a 70-group Air Force. Mr. Symington, during his brilliant service as Secretary of the Air Force, never hesitated to speak his mind on this subject and Mr. Finletter undoubtedly will be just as forceful an advocate of a stronger Air Force.

The Air Policy Commission report, discussed on page 847, reflects Mr. Finletter's broad appreciation of defense needs, including his awareness of Army and Navy requirements.

Following is the text of a statement released by Secretary of Defense Johnson following Mr. Finletter's appointment:

"Since President Truman has appointed Secretary Symington to be Chairman of the NSRB, we of the Department of Defense are fortunate indeed to obtain the services of Thomas K. Finletter of New York to take over the duties of Secretary of the Air Force."

"Mr. Finletter is a man of outstanding qualifications. His long experience in Government Service—Special Assistant to the Secretary of State 1941-1945; consultant to the U. S. Delegation to the San Francisco United Nations Conference; Chairman of the President's Air Policy Commission and recently as ECA Chief in London—has provided him with an excellent background for the work he will be called upon to do in his new post."

"I am certain that the appointment of Mr. Finletter will go far toward softening the blow of Secretary Symington's departure from the Air Force and the Department of Defense, just as I am confident that we of the Defense Department will derive great benefit from the work which Secretary Symington will do as Chairman of the NSRB."

"As the first Secretary of the Air Force, Secretary Symington has made a great contribution to our national security which can be matched by few men."

New Marine Uniform

Marine enlisted men stationed at Marine Corps Headquarters and the Pentagon in Washington will soon be wearing a new tropical-worsted summer uniform, the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL learned this week.

Recently approved by the Marine Corps Uniform Board for test purposes, the new uniform will be similar to the present summer khaki uniform, but will be made of tropical worsted material. It will consist only of shirt and trousers. No blouse will be worn.

Marine Corps insignia, worn on the blouse of both the winter and summer uniforms, will be attached to the shirt collar of the new uniform.

Men stationed in Washington have already been measured for the new uniform, and it is expected that it will be available sometime during the next few months. If the test wear in Washington proves the uniform to be practicable, it will be adopted throughout the Marine Corps.

The ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL understands that it will be used as a work-uniform for personnel in Washington, and as a Class "A" uniform at Marine posts elsewhere.

Navy Flag Changes

The Navy has announced the following flag changes.

Rear Adm. Clifton A. F. Sprague, Commander of the Naval Air Bases in the 11th and 12th Naval Districts, will become Commandant of the 17th Naval District, with headquarters at Kodiak, Alaska, and with additional duty as Commander of the Alaskan Sea Frontier. He will replace Rear Adm. Frank D. Wagner, who has requested retirement. The change will be effected in May.

Rear Adm. William K. Harrill, Chief of Staff and Deputy U. S. Naval Representative on the Military Staff Committee, United Nations, will leave that assignment in April to assume his duties as a Member of the Navy General Board.

Rear Adm. Grover C. Klein, Assistant Chief of the Bureau of Ships for Naval Shipyards, Navy Department, Washington, D. C., will become Bureau of Ships Inspector General for the West Coast with headquarters at Treasure Island, San Francisco. The change will take place this month, and Admiral Klein will have additional duty as Inspector and Advisor on the Staff of the Commander, Western Sea Frontier.

Rear Adm. Archie A. Antrim, Officer in Charge of the Navy Ships Store Office, Brooklyn, N. Y., will become Commanding Officer of the Naval Supply Depot, Mechanicsburg, Pa., in July. He will relieve Rear Adm. John J. Ball, who will retire from the Navy.

Rear Adm. John Q. Owsley, MC, Commanding Officer of the Naval Hospital at Great Lakes, Ill., will go to Seattle, Wash., to be the Medical Officer of the 13th Naval District. He will relieve Rear Adm. John Harper, MC, USN.

Admiral Harper has been named Medical Officer of the 3rd Naval District, headquarters in New York City, with additional duty on the Staff of the Commander of the Eastern Sea Frontier. He replaces Rear Adm. Carlton L. Andrus, MC, USN, who retired in February.

Rear Adm. Spry O. Clayton, DC, USN, Inspector of Naval Dental Activities on the Pacific Coast, has been named Assistant Chief of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery (Dentistry) and Chief of the Dental Division to replace Rear Adm. Clemens V. Rault, DC, USN, who will retire 1 July.

Rear Adm. J. L. Holloway, jr., Superintendent of the Naval Academy, will become Commander of the Cruiser Force, Atlantic Fleet, with additional duty as Commander of Cruiser Division 6, on 28 April.

The Navy had previously announced that Admiral Holloway would be relieved by Vice Adm. Harry W. Hill sometime this month. Admiral Hill will also serve as Commandant of the Severn River Naval Command.

Admiral Holloway will relieve Rear Adm. Allen E. Smith, as announced earlier. Admiral Smith will become Commandant of the 13th Naval District, Seattle, Wash., upon the retirement of Rear Adm. Howard H. Good.

Army Nominations

The President has nominated Maj. Gen. Walter D. Love, DC, USA, for appointment as Assistant to the Army Surgeon General and has named two Medical Corps officers for appointments as temporary major generals and two Medical Corps colonels as temporary brigadier generals.

Nominated to be temporary major generals were Brig. Gen. Arthur R. Gaines, MC, and Brig. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, the latter a permanent colonel. General Heaton, who has been a temporary brigadier general since 10 May 1948, is No. 62 on the official list of Medical Corps colonels, as of 1 Jan.

Named to be temporary brigadier generals were Col. Maxwell G. Keeler, MC, and Col. James P. Cooney, MC. The former is No. 16 on the list of Medical Corps colonels, while Colonel Cooney is No. 70.

Maj. Richard W. Fitch, jr., MSC, and Maj. Anthony J. Race, USA, were nominated for appointment, by transfer, in the Judge Advocate General's Corps.

At the same time, the President nominated the following officers for permanent promotions:

Army Promotion List

H. Treat, No. 13; Ronald J. Pierce, No. 14; Forrest B. Volk, No. 16; Clement Van B. Sawin, No. 21, and Howard W. Quinn, No. 24.

Of the last 25 on the list, three are temporary lieutenant colonels. They are Clifford T. Riordan, No. 3675; John W. White, No. 3676, and Robert N. Anderson, No. 3697.

The junior permanent lieutenant colonel, Michael T. Metz, the last name on a list of 2110, had 17 years' service on 30 June, almost five years' less service than the senior officer on the Major's Permanent Promotion List.

The junior officer on the Majors' Promotion List, in turn, has two years and five months' less service than the senior officer on the Captains' Promotion List, which will be published in forthcoming issues.

Colonels' List

The following changes should be made in the promotion list standing of Army colonels, published in last week's issue of THE JOURNAL, in order to make that list exactly accurate as of 1 Jan. Due to an oversight, two changes in officer status made after the first of the year were reflected in the list as published. In order to obtain uniformity, the following data is made available.

Omitted were the names of Joseph Gorlinksi, No. 963 on the promotion list, who was retired last month; and Harry Reichfelder, No. 498 on the promotion list of colonels as of 1 Jan., but who is now a permanent brigadier general. With these corrections, the list is official as of 1 Jan.

QMC Col. Retires

Col. John N. Gage, QMC, Commanding Officer of the Chicago Quartermaster Depot since January 1947, reverted to a retired status as of 31 March after more than 26 years' service. In relinquishing this important post, Colonel Gage has been appointed Managing Director of the First United States International Trade Fair which opens in Chicago on 7 Aug.

Retired in 1933, Colonel Gage was recalled to active duty in 1941 and assigned as assistant officer in charge of the Procurement Division, Chicago Quartermaster Depot. Later he became Executive Officer of the Depot and assisted in the direction of the program of procurement of non-perishable subsistence which totalled approximately $131,000,000 per month during the war.

Alaskan Officer Commended

Maj. Gen. Stanley L. Scott, USA, commanding general, United States Army, Alaska, and his Chief-of-Staff, Col. Frederick H. Black, recently presented the Army Commendation to two outstanding officers of the command, Capt. Robert C. McCaleb, Deputy Director of Supply, Logistics Division, and Capt. Francis X. Clancy, Officer-in-Charge, Freight Movements, Transportation Office.

Both officers have completed their Alaska tour, Captain McCaleb leaves for duty with the 2d Infantry Division at Ft. Lewis, Wash., and Captain Clancy's new assignment is at McChord AFB, Tacoma, Wash., where he will serve as Air Priorities Control Officer for the Alaskan Command.

Air Tng. for Cavalry

Airborne training of First Cavalry Division troops is scheduled to move into high gear on 17 April when the 2d Battalion of the 7th Cavalry Regiment takes an airborne training flight from Tachikawa Air Base to Matsushima, near Sendai, Japan.

The flight, planned and coordinated between Army and Air Force, will be the first time a complete battalion of the First Cavalry Division has been moved by air, according to Lt. Col. John H. Dilley, Division G-3.

Advisory Group to Philippines

Maj. Gen. Leland S. Hobbs, USA, commander of the Ninth Corps in Japan, which was inactivated last month, has been appointed chief of the Joint U. S. Military Advisory Group to the Republic of the Philippines, replacing Maj. Gen. Jonathan W. Anderson, USA, who will reach the statutory age for retirement on 30 June 1950.

General Hobbs, who will go directly from Japan to Manila to take over the new post, was wartime commander of the 30th Infantry Division. The division participated in the Normandy landing and subsequent breakout battle of Normandy, and four other major campaigns in France, Belgium, Holland and Germany.

Sojourners Meeting

The monthly meeting of Camp Gordon, Ga., Chapter No. 162, National Sojourners, was held 23 March. Highlighting the evening was an after-dinner talk by Col. Wm. H. Maglin, CMP, who is the commanding officer of the Military Police School at Camp Gordon.

The Georgia representative of the National Headquarters, Col. L. F. Nickel, ORC, was present. The meeting was opened by the president, Maj. Charles A. Fanning, CMP. A new membership committee was appointed consisting of Lt. Col. Royal S. Copeland, Maj. L. E. Scott, and Capt. Rex A. Smith.

UNITED STATES ARMYWAC Officer Promotions

A board to select officers of the Women's Army Corps for promotion to the permanent grades of major and captain will convene in Washington beginning 1 May.

The board will consider officers in order of their permanent seniority using the "fully qualified" method of selection. The Adjutant General will submit names of eligible officers to the board for consideration and no recommendations for or against promotion will be required of commanders of the eligible officers.

Officers will be considered for promotion in accordance with the following criteria:

For promotion to permanent major: All permanent captains who will have completed 14 years' service for promotion purposes prior to 1 July 1951.

For promotion to permanent captain: All permanent first lieutenants who will have completed 7 years' service for promotion purposes prior to 1 July 1951.

Names of members of the board will be announced later.

FD Retirements

Three employees with an aggregate of 108 years of service were retired from the Army Finance Department on 31 March, Maj. Gen. Eugene M. Foster, Army Chief of Finance, has announced.

The three employees are Miss Edith L. Howzee with 45 years of Government service, currently with the Washington Finance Office, U. S. Army; Miss Marjorie Hampton with 32 years of Government service, currently with the Receipts and Disbursements Division, Office Chief of Finance; and Miss Mary H. Robertson with 31 years of Government service also with the Receipts and Disbursements Division.

1st Cavalry Division

The 1st Cavalry Division has announced that it will hold its April meeting and dance on Friday, 14 April, at 8 PM, in Gregory Hall, behind "B" Bldg., Office of the Quartermaster General, 2nd and "T" Sts. SW (next to Ft. McNair). All members or former members of the Division are urged to attend with their wives or fiancées. Details for the national convention in New York this summer will be forthcoming. Music and refreshments are promised.

Easter Invitation

The commanding general of the Army Medical Center, Maj. Gen. Paul H. Streit, and his staff, have issued an invitation to all military personnel of the Metropolitan area of Washington to attend Walter Reed General Hospital's traditional Easter Sunrise Service. The half-hour observance starts at 7 o'clock Easter Sunday morning and will be held in the hospital's formal gardens.

Artillery School

ulty members of The Artillery School and senior artillerymen serving with regular and civilian components to exchange information and views.

The Artillery School maintains close liaison with the Air Force and the Navy, with the Artillery's sister combat-arms in the Army, and with the Royal Artillery of Great Britain, Senior Air Force, Marine, Infantry, Armor, and Engineer officers are represented on the faculty of The Artillery School; the Royal Artillery maintains a liaison officer at the School.

In recognition of the immediate importance of airborne operations, a new department of Airborne and Special Operations has been organized at Fort Sill. Its purpose is to centralize and increase airborne and air-transportability instruction at The Artillery School, as well as to provide for the continued development of artillery doctrine, tactics, and techniques in airborne and special operations.

In the last war, one of the major problems in obtaining maximum fire support on any target was the difficulty of inter-branch adjustment of fire. This arose primarily from a multiplicity of conduct-of-fire procedures; the Navy used one system, the Infantry another, and the Artillery still a third. Since the end of the war, The Artillery School in cooperation with other arms and forces has been working to establish a unified, standard system of fire adjustment.

The Artillery School has developed a simpler conduct-of-fire procedure. A simplified observer's manual has been prepared for the use of combat soldiers, sailors, and airmen. The observer adjusts the fire with respect to his position and that of the target; he disregards entirely the position of the guns.

Impetus has been given to the development of a fire-support coordination center, a grouping of command representatives with the necessary communication at each artillery level through which to coordinate the fire from units of all ground arms and air and naval forces in support of the front-line soldier. Such a system provides for maximum fire support at all times.

Through liaison with the Infantry, progress has been made toward developing adequate countermortar procedures. The Infantry has been equipped with sound-detection devices, and direct-support artillery now has radar for mortar location. The division artillery commander coordinates the procedures throughout the division.

The use of electronics equipment is being stressed in target location and in ballistic meteorology. Antiaircraft gun battalions and the field artillery observation battalion are equipped with radar for both of these purposes.

The development of guided missiles is being watched closely for adaptable means of supplementing and extending the effective range of conventional artillerlery—both antiaircraft and field.

The Artillery School has recently developed a new doctrine for the placing of heavy antiaircraft defenses, based upon flank analysis—a procedure developed jointly by the Air Force and the Antiaircraft Artillery during the last war. Effectiveness of fire under varying conditions of air attack, rather than gun density, is the basic criterion in placing heavy antiaircraft weapons. Thus, long-range planning in terms of the desired rate of attrition in the attacking forces, is possible, and increased flexibility and effectiveness in establishing the antiaircraft defense of any locality is assured.

In its resident schooling program at Fort Sill and Fort Bliss, The Artillery School is teaching 28 different courses. Instruction is given to officers and enlisted men of both the regular and civilian components of the Army.

In addition to general courses in artillery and allied subjects, specialist courses are offered in communications; intelligence and survey; Army Field Forces pilot training; radar and countermortar radar; electronics; guided missiles; ballistic meteorology; sound and flash ranging; antiaircraft gunnery control; fire control electricians' training; and the repair and maintenance of radio, radar, weapons, and automotive equipment.

In its non-resident schooling program, The Artillery School has completed about 75 per cent of the initial preparation of material for its expanding extension-course program. Of some 41,000 artillery officers on the active reserve rolls, about 11,000 are enrolled for extension courses; this group includes both National Guard and Organized Reserve Corps officers. Throughout the last 2-year period, enrollment in this program has increased at an average rate of 300 per month. At the present time, about 10,000 individual lessons are graded and returned by the School each month.

The goal of The Artillery School is to insure effective fire support in battle. It can do this only if it offers constructive leadership to artillerymen everywhere. This leadership is especially important since there is no artillery chain-of-command in the American Army. If American Artillery supremacy in any future war is to be assured, the leadership offered by The Artillery School must continue to be effective.

Army Career Fields

The Army this week announced 620 Food Service Career Field Promotions in the upper three grades and simultaneously implemented the Wire Maintenance Career Field—10th of the 31 fields to be introduced.

Major commands were given authority to make the Food Service promotions on a world-wide basis, effective 15 April. Twenty promotions will be made to master sergeant, 100 to sergeant first class and 500 to sergeant.

The promotions were made from among 7,287 applicants. Promoted to master sergeant were 10 mess stewards, four food service technicians, two master bakers and four master meat cutters.

The promotions result from the second round of examinations in the Food Service Career Field, administered during the first week of Dec. 1949.

The Wire Maintenance Career Field, introduced by SR 650-180-1, now being published, provides five job progression ladders: Field Wire Installation (also a combat ladder), Pole Line Installation, Central Office Installation, Repeater Installation and Wire Equipment Maintenance.

Medical Officer, Chairman

The 1950 meeting of the Eastern Section of the American Congress of Physical Medicine will be held in Washington, D. C., on Saturday, 29 April. Col. Emmett M. Smith, MC, USA, Chief, Physical Medicine Consultants Division, Office of the Army Surgeon General, is chairman.

"PTM" in the Pipeline industry an IT&T first!

Federal's Pulse Time Multiplex, first microwave radio relay system ever installed for pipeline communications
...an IT&T development

New to the pipeline industry—new even to communications itself—is "PTM," one of the most flexible, economical and dependable communications systems ever devised. Developed in IT&T laboratories and manufactured by Federal Telephone and Radio Corporation, an IT&T associate, pulse time multiplex is an improved type of microwave radio relay that provides multiple speech channels and unattended telegraph, telemetering, remote control and other signaling facilities...without wire lines or costly maintenance. This is the communication system of the future... available now to private industry for its private use.

Latest installation of Federal's "PTM" is the first in the pipeline industry—for the Keystone Pipe Line Company, subsidiary of the Atlantic Refining Company—a 60-mile span that can be readily extended.

Adm. Denfeld Asks Action

Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, USN-Ret., has told a House Armed Services Subcommittee that Comdr. Edward W. Rawlins, USN, should be promoted to the rank of captain.

In a letter to Representative Overton Brooks (D-La.), chairman of the subcommittee considering legislation to authorize the Secretary of the Navy to promote Commander Rawlins—the sole member of his class on active duty not serving in the rank of captain—Admiral Denfeld declared:

"I was never able to understand why Commander Rawlins was not selected for promotion as he has an excellent record."

Hearings on the legislation to provide specifically for Commander Rawlins' promotion and on a companion bill of more general nature authorizing a general review of records of Naval officers not selected for promotion by wartime panel promotion boards have not been held since 22 Feb. Late this week, no date had been set for resumption of the hearings as Congress began its Easter recess.

There has been some speculation that an effort may be made to add this legislation, opposed by the Navy Department, to another bill amending the Officer Personnel Act with regard to selection of rear admirals for retention, which has Navy Department support. However, such an amendment was not proposed during the hearings held by Representative Brooks' subcommittee on the Officer Personnel Act amendments.

Whether the legislation for the relief of Commander Rawlins and other Naval officers will be asked as an amendment to the flag officer legislation when it is considered by the full House Armed Services Committee, is not known.

The Senate, it is recalled, following adoption by its Armed Services Committee of a report which declares forcefully that Commander Rawlins merits promotion, passed the general review bill, after amending the measure aimed only at authorizing Commander Rawlins' promotion.

Following is the text of Admiral Denfeld's letter as made available this week:

"Dear Mr. Brooks:
"Thank you for your letter of 10 Feb. In which you state that if I make a statement regarding Commander Rawlins that it would be brought to the attention of the members of your subcommittee.

"Commander Rawlins performed his duty the Support Force, North Atlantic from Feb. 1941, when the Force was established, until the end of Dec. when I was detached. I was Chief of Staff for that Force and Commander Rawlins was the Communications Officer. He had a very difficult job as we had not only our own communications, but the British Communications System as well, as we dealt with British and Canadian ships in addition to our own.

"Commander Rawlins performed his duty in a superior manner to the entire satisfaction of Admiral Bristol who was the Commander of the Support Force and the Forces of other countries which we were assisting. He is an officer of the highest personal and professional qualifications and I can not recommend too strongly that the Committee give favorable consideration to legislation in his case. I was never able to understand why Commander Rawlins was not selected for promotion as he has an excellent record.

"With very best regards,
Sincerely,
/s/ Louis Denfeld
Admiral, USN (Ret.)"

Admiral McCormick Vice CNO

Vice Adm. Lynde D. McCormick became Vice Chief of Naval Operations on 3 April, relieving Vice Adm. John D. Price.

The new Vice CNO, a general line officer and former submariner, was appointed to the second highest military position in the Navy in accordance with the established practice of the Navy to have one Naval aviator and one general service officer in the two senior positions. Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, Chief of Naval Operations, is a Naval aviator.

Admiral McCormick was formerly Commandant of the Twelfth Naval District with headquarters at San Francisco. A graduate of the 1915 class of the U. S. Naval Academy, he served with submarines during most of the years prior to World War II. At the beginning of the recent conflict, he served on the staff of the Commander in Chief of the Pacific Fleet, and later commanded the battleship USS South Dakota in the Atlantic.

USN Doctors to AF

Within the next year the Navy will order an additional 100 medical officers to duty with the Air Force. This action, requested by Maj. Gen. Harry G. Armstrong, Surgeon General, U. S. Air Force Medical Service, and approved by Admiral Forrest Sherman, Chief of Naval Operations, will bring to 200 the number of Navy doctors serving in the Air Force.

To meet this request, the Navy's Bureau of Medicine and Surgery has issued letters to all inactive Naval Reserve medical officers of the rank of Lieutenant Commander and below, who are less than 40 years old, asking for volunteers for this temporary assignment to active duty. These volunteers will be accepted for tours of duty of one or two years to fill the present and anticipated vacancies within the Continental United States and, if desired, in overseas theatres.

Three Stars for Marine

Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, Commandant of the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va., will take command of Fleet Marine Force, Pacific, in July, a three-star assignment now held by Lt. Gen. Thomas E. Wilson.

The new duty assignment for General Shepherd was made public by the Marine Corps this week when it released the 1950 transfer list for fifteen general officers.

Other important command changes include the transfer of Maj. Gen. O. P. Smith from Assistant Commandant to command of the First Marine Division at Camp Pendleton, Calif., to be effected in September, and the transfer of Maj. Gen. Ray A. Robinson, Marine Inspector General, to command of the Second Marine Division at Camp Lejeune, N. C. General Robinson will take over his new command in June.

Maj. Gen. Merwin H. Silverthorn, Director of Marine Reserve, will become Assistant Marine Corps Commandant in September.

Other changes are scheduled as follows:

June

Maj. Gen. Samuel L. Howard, from President, Naval Examining Board, Headquarters Marine Corps to Inspector General, Headquarters Marine Corps.

Brig. Gen. Randolph M. Pate, from Chief of Staff, Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Virginia to Deputy Commandant, Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va.

Col. James A. Stuart, recently selected for Brigadier General, from National War College, Wash. D. C., to Chief of Staff, Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va.

July

Maj. Gen. Franklin A. Hart, from Commanding General, Second Marine Division, Camp Lejeune, N. C., to Commandant, Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va.

Brig. Gen. William L. McKittick, from Chief of Staff and Inspector General, Department of Pacific, San Francisco, to Commanding General, Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point, N. C.

Brig. Gen. Ivan W. Miller, from Commanding General, Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point, N. C., to Chief of Staff, Fleet Marine Force, Pacific, Pearl Harbor, Oahu, T. H.

August

Col. John C. McQueen, recently selected for Brigadier General, from 12th Marine Corps Reserve District, San Francisco, to Headquarters, Marine Corps, Washington, D. C.

Col. George F. Good, Jr., recently selected for Brigadier General, from Second Marine Division, Camp Lejeune, N. C., to Commanding General, Troop Training Unit, Atlantic, Little Creek, Va.

September

Maj. Gen. Alfred H. Noble, from Commanding General, Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C., to Director, Reserve Division, Headquarters Marine Corps, Washington, D. C.

Brig. Gen. Robert H. Pepper, from Commanding General, Troop Training Unit, Atlantic, Little Creek, Va., to Commanding General, Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C.

October

Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine, from Commanding General, First Marine Division, Camp Pendleton, Calif., to Commanding General, Department of Pacific, San Francisco, Calif.

'BUMPER'

Giant missile born of teamwork!

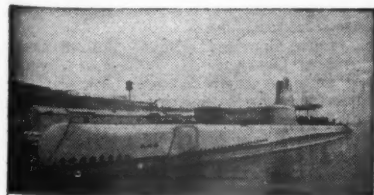

Miles above the earth, the slender "Wac Corporal" rocket blasts loose from a modified German V-2, and attains a speed of 5,000 mph and an altitude of 250 miles—fastest and highest flight by any rocket. This most successful firing, from White Sands Proving Ground, New Mexico, February 25, 1949, gave scientists important information on little known phenomena of outer space and other data required in missile research.

The "bumper" rocket used in this spectacular test was developed by Army Ordnance working with General Electric, California Institute of Technology Ballistics Research Laboratories, and Douglas Aircraft Company. Structural design of the "bumper" and construction of the "Wac" were among the contributions made by Douglas.

This is just one of the many missiles projects, so vital to America's defense, to which Douglas engineers have been devoting their skill and energies since 1941.

Communications Policy Board

Maj. Gen. H. M. McClelland, USAF, has been designated by Paul H. Griffith, Assistant Secretary of Defense, to act as liaison between the Department of Defense and the President's Communications Policy Board. The Board will meet 20 Apr. to discuss the subject of international communications.

General McClelland will receive and review comments of the Secretaries of the Army, Navy, and Air Force, the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and the Chairmen of the Research and Development Board and the Munitions Board. He will then prepare a coordinated statement which, when approved by Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson, will be presented to the 20 Apr. meeting of the President's Communications Policy Board. Since 30 Aug. 1949, General McClelland has been Director of Communications-Electronics, Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Air Officer Honored

Col. Carroll S. Miller, Director of Communications and Electronics at First Air Force headquarters, Mitchel AFB, N. Y., and a veteran of World Wars I and II, has received the Philippine Military Merit Medal for training Filipino Army personnel in radio and radar work in the last war. The medal, which is comparable to the American Legion of Merit, was presented to Colonel Miller by Maj. Gen. Glenn O. Barcus, Commanding General of the First Air Force. The citation on which the award is based was presented to Colonel Miller while he was in the Philippines and is signed by Basilio J. Valdes, Chief of Staff of the Philippine Army.

Air Col. Retires

Col. George L. Usher, USAF, commanding general of the 78th Fighter Interceptor Wing and Hamilton AFB, Calif., commander, has retired after 34 years' service. He was advanced to brigadier general on the Air Force retired list.

Airmen Promotion Policy

The Air Force this week released AFR 39-30, establishing general policies for the promotion and demotion of all airmen.

Heretofore, promotion and demotion of Air Force enlisted men and women has been based largely on Army Regulation 615-5, published in Sept. 1946 and now rescinded for Air Force use.

Under the new regulation, minimum requirements for time in grade are established in conformance with the Airman Career Program. The terms "promotion" and "demotion" now used for officers are to replace "appointment" and "reduction" formerly used for airmen.

The regulation provides for major Air Force commanders to delegate authority down to and including squadron level commanders for promotion to the grade of corporal and private first class. Authority to promote non-commissioned officers to the upper four pay grades may now be delegated to the group or units on a comparable level.

Airmen may be advanced only one grade at a time. Minimum time in grade requirements, aligned to follow the pattern established in the Airman Career Program, are as follows:

Pay Grade	Grade Title	Minimum Requirements For Time In Grade
E-1	Pvt	4 months
E-2	1st Cl	8 months
E-3	Cpl	18 months
E-4	Sgt	24 months
E-5	S/Sgt	36 months
E-6	T/Sgt	48 months

Limitations on promotion and reasons for demotion are specifically enumerated in the new regulation.

Demotion procedures are changed substantially to place greater responsibility on the commanders concerned. In all cases the airman concerned is entitled to a personal hearing. In addition, airmen of the upper four pay grades are entitled to appear before a Demotion Board.

Demotion boards may be composed of commissioned officers, warrant officers, and master sergeants. The boards are purely fact finding in nature and do not limit action by the demoting authority. This provision is patterned after the constitution of boards for trial by courts martial under the new Manual for Courts Martial, 1949.

Airmen may no longer volunteer for demotion. Demotion action will be initiated for the specific reasons listed in the new regulation, or for similar reasons. Demotions for punitive reasons will not be made under this authority.

SCARWAF (Special Categories, Army ... personnel serving ... With the Air Force) personnel will also be subject to the promotion and demotion policies contained in this regulation.

Not affected by AFR 39-30 is the ruling of AF Letter 39-9, pertaining to promotion of corporals without regard to unit grade vacancies. Action under this letter will remain in effect until rescinded by specific authority from USAF Headquarters.

The following are excerpts from the regulation:

Promotion

Policy. Action to promote airmen will be taken on a fair and equitable basis, regard being given to seniority, age, and selection based upon ability and efficiency. The best qualified method of selection will be used to fill specific grade vacancies which are authorized. This means equal consideration of all eligible airmen regardless of their seniority. In other words, the same consideration will be given to the most junior eligible airman as is given to the most senior eligible airman. No airman has an inherent right to promotion because of long service and/or completion of time-in-grade requirements.

Promoting Authority:

a. All Grades. Authority to promote in all grades of airmen, at the discretion of the major air commander concerned, may be delegated down to and including the commanders of groups or comparable organizations and separate units.

b. Corporal and Private First Class. Authority to promote airmen to the grades of corporal and private first class, at the discretion of the major air commander concerned, may be delegated down to and including commanders of squadrons or comparable organizations and separate units.

Types of Promotions:

a. Permanent. All promotions effected under the provisions of this Regulation are considered as permanent unless indicated otherwise. All grades now held by airmen are considered as permanent.

b. Temporary. Temporary promotions will be accomplished only when special authorization for these promotions is announced by the Secretary of the Air Force or as prescribed in AFR 53-2 for airmen who are selected to attend the Air Force Officer Candidate School. Selectees for this school who are below the grade of staff sergeant will be promoted to that grade for the purpose of attendance at the school. Limitations on promotion prescribed in paragraph 13 will not apply in effecting such promotions.

Promotion to Private First Class. Commanders authorized to promote to the grade of private first class may promote to that grade privates who have satisfactorily completed four months of service, or who have completed a prescribed basic training course, whichever is earlier. This authority will not be used for the automatic promotion of all privates, but will be reserved for those whose services have been satisfactory.

Limitations on Promotion. Limitations placed on the promotion of airmen are prescribed below:

a. Understrength Organizations. Organizations which are understrength are authorized to utilize for promotion purposes only that share of the allotted grades directly proportionate to assigned strength.

b. Table of Organization Units. Promotion of airmen assigned to Table of Organization units will conform strictly to the distribution of grades by Air Force specialty and duty assignment except those promotions authorized in paragraphs 8b and 9.

c. Non-Table of Organization Units. Promotion of airmen in non-Table of Organization units will conform to grade distribution as established within the appropriate Table of Distribution and/or Table of Distribution Augmentation prepared in compliance with AFR 35-60.

d. Restrictions. To insure that Air Force wide grade authorizations are not exceeded, Headquarters USAF may impose restriction on the promotion of airmen. However, vacancies in noncommissioned grades should be determined at group, comparable unit, and/or separate unit level unless otherwise prescribed by Headquarters USAF or the major air commander concerned. Cumulative vacancies in the higher noncommissioned grades may be used to effect the promotion of airmen in corresponding numbers in the lower noncommissioned grades provided that approved authorization by Air Force specialty is not exceeded. Airmen will be promoted only against vacancies within a specialty in which they are qualified.

In determining time in grade for airmen who have been demoted for cause, only service subsequent to date of demotion will be credited. However, time spent in grade equal to or higher than that in which serving, from which the airman concerned was demoted for reasons other than cause, may be counted in determining time-in-grade requirements.

Time served in equal or higher grades during a previous enlistment or enlistments when service has not been continuous, at the discretion of the commander having promoting authority, may be counted towards the minimum time-in-grade requirement for promotion.

Air Univ. Expands

The Air University on 1 April took over the operation of the Air Force Institute of Technology at Wright-Patterson AF Base, Dayton, Ohio.

General George C. Kenney, USAF, Commanding General, Air University, made this announcement following receipt of a letter from the Secretary of the Air Force, which relieves the United States Air Force Institute of Technology from assignment to the Air Materiel Command and transfers it without change in personnel, strength or station to the Air University.

This transfer increases the student enrollment of the Air University by approximately 1500 officers and adds 63 to its administrative and educational personnel. More than 300 of the student officers are enrolled in resident courses at the institute and about 1200 are pursuing studies in Civilian Educational Institutions.

The decision to transfer the United States Air Force Institute of Technology is the result of the recommendations of the Air Force Military Education Board composed of 12 general officers which concluded its review of the Air Force's educational system in January. Maj. Gen. Laurence C. Craigie, a member of the board and Commandant of the School, assumed command of the Institute 3 Sept. 1948.

Score Hospital Shut-down

Auburn Hospital, Cambridge, Mass., testified that "hardship and great suffering" would result from the closing among dependents of military personnel.

Military and Congressional sources have emphasized to THE JOURNAL that the closing of the hospitals may seriously curtail dependent care. Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga.), of the House Armed Services Committee has insisted that his group will not permit the Department of Defense to accomplish "indirectly what it cannot do directly," namely eliminate or curtail dependent care.

In rejecting Representative Doyle's request for a stop-order, which had been preceded by a request from Chairman Vinson to Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson that the inactivation order be rescinded at least until the Congressional investigation is completed, President Truman declared:

"As you know, I have been investigating this situation for some time past. It is most difficult to arrive at a conclusion on the subject, for the simple reason that whenever an attempt is made to economize in any department, there are always pressure groups endeavoring to prevent that organization for efficiency which is so necessary to the operation of our Government.

"I do appreciate, of course, your personal interest in the matter in your district in California, and would like to see things like that carried on, but if we really want to make the income of the Government meets its expenditures, the only way it can be done is to cut off some of those expenditures."

Representative Shafer's serious charge concerning the death of a veteran at Percy Jones GH—he said other veterans are dying "all over the country"—as a result of the hospital closing order—was denied by Brig. Gen. Harry D. Offutt, commanding general at Percy Jones.

The Michigan Congressman maintained that Lloyd W. Landon, World War I veteran, could not gain admittance to Percy Jones until his case was declared an emergency.

In order to meet deadline requirements, the hospitals to be closed are not accepting any new cases, except those in the emergency category.

Representative Shafer maintained that Mr. Landon's widow was told by a doctor at the hospital that Mr. Landon's life would have been saved if he had been admitted earlier.

General Offutt said Mr. Landon was admitted immediately after he was classified as an "emergency" case by the Veterans' Administration.

With regard to the adequacy of hospital beds in event of atomic attack, it is recalled that military witnesses, notably Rear Adm. Clifford Swanson, USN, Navy Surgeon General, emphasized to the Rivers subcommittee the urgent need for adequate hospital beds in reserve status.

Senator Brien McMahon (D-Conn), committee chairman, warned that "the most careful and thorough kind of advance preparation is imperative."

That the Defense Department may have overstated the anticipated economies from the hospital closings and curtailments is indicated in the alarm expressed at the $12,000,000 cut—over $8,000,000 in the Army Medical Department budget and about $4,000,000 in the Navy Medical Department funds for fiscal year 1951.

It is reported reliably that during the final days of the House Appropriations Committee hearings on the budget, a ranking Defense official said that actually only $6,000,000 would be saved. However, the House committee, taking cognizance of previous reports of greater savings, arbitrarily chopped double that amount from the budget, emphasizing that the action was taken on the basis of published reports concerning the anticipated savings.

Praise for Secretary Johnson's hospital economy program came this week from the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report. The Committee said: "Secretary Johnson's program for reorganization of military medical hospitals, the first phase of which was recently put into operation, is a logical next step in the application of planned management as recommended by the Hoover Commission. Secretary Johnson merits high praise for the vigorous and forthright manner in which he has attacked the problem of improved Government in his Department."

The Committee at the same time endorsed legislation which would merge existing Federal hospital services, including Army, Navy and Air Force hospitals, in a United Medical Administration.

In praising Secretary Johnson for closing the hospitals, the Committee reiterated estimates of $25,000,000 annual savings. The Committee said there would be no alteration in the "highly competent professional medical services available to military personnel or beneficiaries."

Resurvey Air Strength

handled by the Central Intelligence Agency which is not covered by defense appropriations. Similarly, he said, industrial mobilization is a primary responsibility of the National Security Resources Board.

In the Appropriation Bill now before the Congress a total of $1,350,000,000 is provided for procurement of war planes. General Eisenhower suggested this amount be increased by $150 million. Other proposed increases, he thought, might raise the total defense budget by from $300 to $500 million.

In his speech in the House Representative Vinson warned of the danger of an "atomic blitz." He took Mr. Johnson severely to task for impairing the effectiveness of the Armed Forces through reductions in strength. He said:

"I want to state emphatically that, in my judgment, Mr. Johnson's economy scalpel has not only carved away some service fat, but has cut—deeply in some areas—into sinew and muscle of the Armed Services.

"The Secretary is to be commended in glowing terms for cutting off the fat. But his economy program has also impaired the fighting effectiveness of the Armed Forces, and for this the Secretary is not, in my opinion, to be commended.

"A new thought is being germinated in Washington these days. It is that by reducing the Armed Forces we are, by some magical process, growing in strength and becoming militarily more effective.

"I will leave it to others to sell this idea that we can rise by falling, that we can advance by retreating, that we can achieve strength through weakness."

Mr. Vinson said that the Congress could not delegate its Constitutional responsibility to raise and support armies and provide for the National Defense. He decried the practice of impounding funds and preventing their use for the purpose for which they were appropriated, with particular reference to appropriations made last year for aircraft procurement.

Representative George H. Mahon (D-Tex.), chairman of the subcommittee handling defense appropriations, replied to Mr. Vinson, stating that National Security was not dependent solely on appropriations for the Defense Department. He called attention to funds allotted to the Atomic Energy Commission, those for military aid for Europe, and for stockpiling strategic materials.

Representative Jack Z. Anderson (R-Calif.) assailed Secretary Johnson in a bitter speech in which he accused the Secretary of "insatiable ambition—an unquenchable lust for power—a cavalier disregard, strongly colored with contempt, for the Congress—an unbridled eagerness for publicity—a dictatorial bent that will brook not only no opposition, but no disagreement, whether warranted or not—and no little disdain for honesty, at least before Congressional committees."

The general debate on the Appropriations Bill continued during the week, with indications that the bill would be finally disposed of by the House soon after the Easter recess.

Air Force "Fledglings"

"Fledglings" is the new term for Air Force Children being introduced by the Air Force Officers' Club of Washington.

To help spread the use of the term, 12-year-old Kristin Norstad, daughter of Lt. Gen. and Mrs. Lauris Norstad, appeared on the American Broadcasting Company's program "Junior Junction" recently. Miss Norstad told of the origin of "fledgling" and of the pleasures of being an Air Force child.

Shortly after the broadcast, Mrs. Hoyt Vandenberg, honorary President of the Air Force Officers' Club of Washington, sent a letter to each Air Force Public Information officer, quoting from the script and asking them to "spread the use of this new term to designate all children of Air Force parents" and to "pass the word along to all your base organizations—women's clubs, young peoples' groups, etc."

In response to this letter, Col. C. H. Welch, Chief PIO at Wright-Patterson AFB, forwarded to the club the following poem written by WAF Sgt. Helena Redmond:

AIR FORCE ISSUE

A daughter may be mannerly,
A three-year-old may tip his hat,
But if his Dad's an Army man
The Army child is still a "Brat."

The Admiral and Bosuns Mate
Refer to "Junior" when they bore
Acquaintances with photographs
Of progeny at home ashore.

But now the Air Force comes along
With new blue suits and new jet planes,
And Airmen speak in Airmen's terms
When mentioning their Joes and Janes.

Today the wild-blue-yonder man
Says "Fledgling" when he brashly sings
The praises of his nested
Which never yet has tried its wings.

A "Junior" may mean any child,
A "Brat" may simply mean a brat—
But "Fledgling" plainly signifies
An Air Force child. No doubt of that!

So here's to "Fledglings" in the nest,
Teen-ager, cooling babe, or tot—
May blue skies crown their future flights
And happy landings be their lot!

Air Gen. In Training

Maj. Gen. Archie J. Old, Jr., USAF, deputy commanding general of the 8th Air Force, has been taking transition training at the 367th Bomb Squadron, MacDill AFB, Fla., during the past two weeks. He has departed MacDill for his post at Carswell AFB, Ft. Worth, Tex.

Taking B-29 transition training at the present time is Capt. Francis L. Busey, USN, who is on detached service with headquarters SAC, Omaha, Neb.

Air Force Appointments

Late this week the Air Force Personnel Council had yet to convene to select from among approximately 4,000 applicants the names of 300 Reserve officers on extended active duty for Regular appointments. It has been stated, however, that the list will be announced this Spring.

Air Chaplain Moves

Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Ralph A. Hill, 3415th Technical Training Wing Chaplain at Lowry AFB, Colo., will leave 18 May for Clark AB, Philippine Islands, where he will be Chaplain for the 13th Air Force. The new wing chaplain at Lowry will be Chaplain (Lt. Col.) James Z. Hanner.

SATURDAY, 8 APRIL 1950

"The chances of avoiding a war will be greatly increased if this country has the available force to strike back and to defeat anyone who breaks the peace."—REPORT OF PRESIDENT'S AIR POLICY COMMISSION OF WHICH MR. THOMAS K. FINLETTER WAS CHAIRMAN.

OUR PRIORITY LIST

1. Early construction of adequate Government quarters for commissioned and enlisted personnel at all permanent stations, supplemented by satisfactory legislation to encourage private building of dwelling units near Service establishments.
2. Improved retirement pay for wounded and disabled personnel.
3. Continuance and extension of medical and dental care for families of Service personnel; provision for education at Government expense of children of Service personnel on duty at stations where suitable free schools are not available; and survivor benefits for dependents.
4. Restoration of military exemptions from Federal income tax, broadened to exclude all retired pay from taxation.
5. Early attainment and continued maintenance of a fully-manned 70-group Air Force.
6. Prompt construction of a radar fence and air warning net to cover all avenues of hostile air approach.
7. Rapid expansion of our submarine fleet and accelerated development of anti-submarine vessels and equipment, with continued experimentation and construction of new Naval types.
8. Organization and training of a balanced Mobile Ground Force, including air-borne and amphibious troops, of sufficient strength and ready, with complete and modern equipment, for immediate action in an emergency.
9. Development and improvement of the organization and training of the National Guard, Organized Reserves and other civilian components of the Armed Forces, with appropriate training facilities, and restoration of inactive training pay for all elements.
10. Continued scientific research and development in all new and unconventional devices and methods of warfare backed by industry and labor kept constantly ready and trained through production and educational orders.
11. Close supervision and constant restudy of Service promotion and elimination policies and procedures to insure the prevention or prompt correction of injustices and inequities.

MODERATE increases in appropriations for essential items in our military budget are expected to result directly from the recommendations of General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower to the Senate Appropriations Committee. Influential members of both Houses of Congress were quick to endorse the views which the General expressed last week both orally and in writing to the committee. The General urged that additional funds be provided for such vital needs as strengthening Alaskan defenses by radar installations and by stronger garrisons of ground troops at Air Bases, procurement of planes in increased numbers to insure the maintenance of a modern 48-Group Air Force, anti-submarine protection, new and better equipment for ground organizations, expansion of intelligence activities and acceleration of industrial mobilization. General Eisenhower estimates that additional expenditures for these purposes might total $300 to $500 million. The program he outlined represents the minimum that should be authorized. The reasoned judgment of one of the great military leaders of our country should carry great weight with the Congress and the public. The increased cost is relatively small in comparison with the results that would be achieved. Despite the persuasiveness of arguments for a balanced budget our National Security should always come first.

THE selection of Air Force Secretary W. Stuart Symington as Chairman of the National Security Resources Board has received the deserved acclaim of the public and the members of the Services. It would be difficult to think of an individual better qualified for this most important assignment. Mr. Symington's highly successful career, both in public service and private industry, has given him the opportunity to acquire the experience, knowledge and leadership so requisite to the duties of his new office. During the first World War Mr. Symington, though under age, enlisted in the Army. He became a lieutenant at 17, one of the youngest in military history. Following the war he was graduated from Yale University, and then entered the manufacturing industry, in which he has been an outstanding success. He converted his factory to war production in 1941, and built the world's largest airplane armament plant, which fabricated great quantities of power-driven turrets for American bombers. In 1945 he became Surplus Property Administrator, then Assistant Secretary of War for Air, and later the first Secretary of the Air Force. His drive and enthusiasm and his vigorous leadership have been reflected in the phenomenal growth of the Air Force in strength and efficiency during his administration. His comprehensive knowledge of military and industrial requirements, as well as his great executive ability, will undoubtedly result in the effective coordination of our military and industrial resources for National Security.

PROMPT action should be taken by the Congress to extend the time in which military personnel hospitalized prior to 1 Oct. 1949, and later retired for disability, may elect to receive retirement pay under the old laws or under the new Career Compensation Act. The new law provides that those who were hospital patients at the time the Act was passed and subsequently retired for disability would have six months, or until 1 Apr. 1950, to choose to receive retirement benefits under the old or the new laws. There are many who have been in hospitals more than six months, whose cases were not processed prior to 1 April, and whose retirement compensation is therefore limited to that provided by the new Act. For a considerable number it would probably be more advantageous to be paid under the old law, but the delay in retirement procedure, for which they were in no way responsible, deprives them of making the choice open to others similarly situated who were retired prior to 1 April. Bills have been introduced in Congress to extend to 1 Jan. 1951 the period in which the selection may be made. There appears to be no opposition to such legislation and it should be immediately enacted.

Letters to the Editor

Letters expressing individual views and intended for publication should be accompanied by the name and address of the writer, not necessarily for publication, but as evidence of good faith. If the writer desires to omit his name when the letter is published, he should so state. The ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL may find it necessary to use only extracts from longer letters so that more viewpoints may be represented.

National Minerals Policy

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

I agree fully with Mr. Young's statement (ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL 1 April) that—"we must adopt a national minerals policy which will maintain a healthy mining industry with ample reserves of developed ores" and that such a "national minerals policy should include proper incentives to encourage exploration and development work," and, I might add, the conservation by utilization, now, of presently known low-grade reserves in danger of abandonment.

As Mr. Young says, "a centralized agency to carry out such a national policy" is needed, and I feel should be set up without further delay by Government, if we are to maintain in this country "a healthy mining industry."

O. W. Bilharz,
President, Bilharz Mining Co.

Reserve Officer Reenlistment

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

I and thousands of Reserve Officers in the Army who do not hold permanent warrants as M/Sergeants are very much in doubt as to our future. Many of us wish to extend our categories which expire next year, but the best information available at this time is clear that, should we extend our categories, we will lose our rights to later reenlist as M/Sergeants.

Many of us have over ten years' service yet with all of that service under present regulations if we extend our categories we will waive our rights to reenlist as Master Sergeants. Surely someone will correct this injustice.

Reserve Officer

Promotion Lists

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

Publication of the promotion list standing of every Regular Army officer marks another invaluable service of THE JOURNAL to its readers. It is unfortunate that this information is not printed in the current Army Register. The Army should be commended for making this information available to THE JOURNAL. It helps an officer's morale to know exactly where he stands with regard to promotion selections.

Lt. Col., USA.

Marine on JCS

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

With reference to your recent stories concerning Representative Vinson's bill to place the Marine Corps Commandant on the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the recent report of the House Armed Services Committee on Unification and Strategy makes it evident that the Marines have been handicapped by the lack of top-level representation. Perhaps a compromise might be necessary so that the Navy would not have two votes, although the wartime service of General Marshall and General Arnold on the JCS—the Army had two votes then—is a precedent. If there is concern on this matter, perhaps the Marine Corps Commandant could sit in on JCS discussions—at least those pertaining to amphibious warfare—and have no vote. Representative Vinson has struck a blow for unification.

The chief purpose of the Hawaiian exercises is to train both the Army and Navy forces in joint operation in order that they may become practiced in cooperating with each other. For many reasons much difficulty has always been experienced in joint operations during war. Failures have been only too common. They have been especially common in the early portions of a great war. (Statement by Maj. Gen. John L. Hines, then Chief of Staff, preceding departure for Hawaii, for duty as Chief of Staff.)

The increasing business of the United States upon the Pacific has for years drawn attention to the advisability of an ocean cable between our western coast and some point on the Asiatic shores. The annexation of the Hawaiian Islands has added to this feeling, and a bill providing for the laying of a submarine cable from San Francisco to Honolulu has at length been introduced in the Senate, and has reached the stage of a favorable report by the Committee on Naval Affairs.

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

Mid-Session Evaluation—Congress this week reached the approximate midpoint of the second session of the 81st Congress as legislators left Washington for the annual Easter recess. In view of the fact that work on the 1951 budget has been accelerated and because 1950 is an election year, it is certain that Senators and Representatives will strive for an early adjournment. At the half-way mark, this was the situation with regard to major military legislation.

Housing was given a No. 1 priority in formulation of the Department of Defense legislative program late last year and definite progress has been achieved since Congress convened in January. The Senate has passed a public works bill containing millions of dollars in authorizations for construction of family quarters. The House Armed Services Committee has approved the legislation, including later amendments adding about $180,000,000 in additional construction, although little housing is included in the supplemental requests. Additionally, the House this week passed an amendment to the Wherry Act, which will facilitate the construction by private contractors of family quarters at or adjacent to military bases. Aware of the need for Service housing, Congress has been acting favorably on military housing measures.

It had been intended to submit to this session of Congress an omnibus bill containing urgently needed amendments to the Officer Personnel Act. Apparently this plan has been abandoned and in its place separate bills are being introduced. Notable among these is the measure to change the procedure for retention selection of Navy flag officers and Marine Corps major generals. The measure has received approval of the Senate Armed Services Committee and a House Armed Services subcommittee.

Establishment of an Air Force Academy also was given a priority place in the Department of Defense legislative program, but there has been no real action on this problem during the current Congressional session. It has been stated that Congressmen are reluctant to vote a specific site during an election year and it is probable that the Air Academy proposal will be delayed until the next session.

Legislation to permit acceptance of foreign decorations for participation in the Berlin Airlift is assured speedy approval and early transmittal to the President, as is another bill to extend the time limitations with respect to award of certain World War II decorations.

The Army Organization Bill, now under consideration by a House Armed Services subcommittee, headed by Representative Paul Kilday (D Tex) will be reported to the full committee shortly after the Easter recess. It is known that the subcommittee has rewritten the bill in parts, mainly to restrict the broad authority sought for the Secretary of the Army.

The Military Justice Bill also should receive final Congressional approval soon after Congress resumes on 17 April. A conference is to be held among Senators and Representatives to work out relatively minor differences, such as the time a man may be put on bread and water and the tenure of civilian judges on the top military court of appeals.

Not included in the Defense legislative program, but certain for early debate are pending bills to place the Marine Corps Commandant on the Joint Chiefs of Staff; to limit the appropriated fund which can be withheld by the Secretary of Defense; to force the removal of a military officer as chairman of the Department of Defense Management Committee; and to provide for increased naval ship construction and modernization.

Chairman Vinson and the Navy—If at the beginning of the current session of the 81st Congress there were those who believed that Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee, long-time chairman of the old Naval Affairs Committee, had abandoned the Navy in favor of the Air Force, these misinformed persons doubtless have been set right by recent action on Capitol Hill.

At the time Chairman Vinson, one of the most powerful personalities in Congress, was leading the successful fight for Congressional appropriation of increased funds for the Air Force—later placed in Reserve by the President—there was speculation that he was now less concerned with the Navy than with the Air Force. What was overlooked, of course, is the fact that Representative Vinson has always stood for strong National Defense, regardless of particular Service.

Thus, observers who have understood his consistent efforts for all the Armed Forces, were not surprised as he championed the campaign for more Air Force funds. Nor was there surprise more recently among the informed as Chairman Vinson took up legislative cudgels in support of increased Navy funds.

Specifically, he has sponsored legislation to place the Marine Corps Commandant on the Joint Chiefs of Staff—a direct result of the Armed Services Committee's provocative report on "Unification and Strategy" which gave considerable attention to the needs of the Navy. This was followed by a bill, introduced also by Chairman Vinson, to authorize $500,000,000 for construction of 50,000 tons of "modern naval vessels" and for conversion of 200,000 tons of existing vessels.

The 1951 budget provides $300,000,000 for shipbuilding and conversion, but it is noted that no new contract authorizations for shipbuilding are provided. Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, USN, Chief of Naval Operations, has declared that "there are certain types definitely and urgently needed as reinforcements or prototypes for rounding out the operating forces and continuing the development of naval warfare."

Following the bill to increase the efficiency of Navy surface units, Chairman Vinson has launched a fight on the floor of the House for an increase of $383,289,221 in the Navy 1951 budget for 530 more aircraft, the exact number urged by a ranking Navy officer. The budget, as reported by the House Appropriations Committee, provides $690,000,000 for new naval planes.

During appropriations testimony, Vice Adm. John H. Cassady, USN, DCNO (Air), revealed that 1273 naval aviators are being removed from flight duties because of a decrease in aircraft operating strength. Admiral Cassady said the budget's allocation of funds for only 817 aircraft will leave a deficiency of 530, to be met by operation of "second-line" planes. Admiral Cassady added that of the 6233 planes to be operated in 1950, only 66.5 per cent would be "first-line." He emphasized that unless additional funds are provided for procurement, the Navy's air arm would be so reduced that within 10 years, at the current rate of procurement, not more than 3000 total operating aircraft would be available.

Chairman Vinson has contended that unless procurement of naval aircraft is expanded, along with additional funds for the Air Force, National Defense will be jeopardized. In his position as head of the Armed Services Committee, a unification outgrowth of the Naval Affairs Committee of which he was head for many years and the Military Affairs Committee, Representative Vinson has demonstrated a firm determination to insure the Navy full consideration in all defense councils, increased combat potential through new ship construction and conversion and modernization of the naval air arm. Obviously, its friend of so many years has not abandoned the Navy. He continues one of its strongest advocates in his overall effort to safeguard the Nation's defense.

Soldiers' Home—The Bureau of the Budget has at last been successful in breaching the more than century-old fund of the U. S. Soldiers' Home and depriving the old soldiers of some of their ground. However, the agreement reached does not destroy the Home and will permit continued operation if the proposed agreements are adhered to and the permanent fund not entirely obliterated.

What few people realize is that the entire Soldiers' Home establishment has never cost the taxpayers a single dollar. The original $100,000 resulted from a levy General Winfield Scott placed upon the City of Mexico in 1848. General Scott asked that Congress use the money for an asylum for soldiers, which Congress subsequently approved by a special Act. Subsequent funds have come from certain fines and forfeitures and from actual deductions from the pay of Regular Army enlisted men. The proceeds of this fund support the Home, but also have been a target for the Bureau of the Budget which would like to see it blanketed into the general Treasury funds. In this they were only partly successful. It is understood that the agreement reached this week will establish a reserve of $20,000,000 to replace the Permanent Fund, which now totals about $40,000,000. There will also be a revolving fund of $6,000,000 with a provision that if the sources of revenue bring in more money the amount beyond $6,000,000 will revert to the Treasury.

The Home originally comprised about 700 acres, but part of it was given over to the District Reservoir and filtration plant and some for city streets, so that the total was reduced to about 400 acres. Now that is to be further reduced by about 148 acres for the construction of Veterans Administration facilities, for a Medical Center for the District of Columbia, and for the extension of city streets.

Just before the War a special Senate sub-Committee, of which Senator Chan Gurney was a member, investigated the Home and gave it high praise. Their report said, in part, "Your committee could go into a lengthy statement describing all the excellent facilities which it had the privilege of seeing at this home, but the conclusion would be that the home is in fact a real home for the members entitled to admission thereto; that it is conducted solely for the benefit of the members thereof; that the members are generally happy, contented, and satisfied with their lot; and that your committee cannot visualize at this time any changes or improvements which have not already been thought of or put into effect by the officers in charge of the home. Your committee are of the opinion that the whole legislative idea of the National Soldiers' Home was so well and so carefully worked out by our ancestors, specifically in the acts of 1851 and 1883, that it is believed that even in the light of present-day changes throughout the world it would be difficult indeed to improve upon the statutory provisions made for the comfort, care, and protection of the members."

Admiral Sherman's Views—Back from an inspection trip to Europe, Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, Chief of Naval Operations, reiterated at a Pentagon press conference this week the Navy's intention to continue anti-submarine warfare as a "first priority." Commanding officer of the Mediterranean Sixth Task Fleet for 20 months before his appointment as CNO, Admiral Sherman returned from the European area "heartened" by progress of Naval units in the Atlantic and Mediterranean.

Asked whether recent additions to the Pacific Fleet have reduced operating capabilities of the Mediterranean Fleet, Admiral Sherman related that the transfers to the Seventh Fleet in the Pacific have come from units in "home waters." He said his inspection trip revealed no new information concerning the Soviet Navy, although he repeated earlier statements that there "is evidence of a revival of Russian naval aspirations," described as a "normal concomitant of reaching warm waters."

In the light of official announcements that the Russian submarine force is estimated to have 270 vessels, Admiral Sherman's press conference comments on anti-submarine warfare were particularly significant. He said that within budget limitations the Navy will take whatever steps possible to increase the efficiency of anti-submarine units. He noted that Navy destroyer strength has been reduced from 170 to 130 and that 30 patrol squadrons have been reduced to 20. Admiral Sherman estimated that it costs approximately $1,000,000 a year to operate a destroyer and about the same amount for a patrol squadron, disregarding plane procurement. He said the addition of $78,000,000 to the budget for anti-submarine warfare equipment—$58,000,000 for shipboard gear and $20,000,000 for aircraft detection equipment will greatly help the Navy in performing its mission, but he emphasized that there is a danger in the philosophy of relying too much on gadgets. New equipment is needed, Admiral Sherman observed, but there must also be an increase in the number and skill of personnel engaged in anti-submarine training.

Admiral Sherman reiterated also the Navy's plan to shift more ships and men from continental operations to more strategic assignments with operating fleet units. He has said many times that the Navy is burdened with heavy responsibilities for maintaining large shore establishments, particularly with regard to maintaining reserve vessels, but reemphasized this week the plan to place fleet organizations "in a better state of readiness." The use of an increasing number of floating bases will be emphasized, he said, with the reassignment of tender and other auxiliary vessels.

Ft. Bliss Memorial—"In reverent memory of the courageous dead of the 1st Cavalry Division," its national Association of over 5,000 paid-up active ex-troopers dedicated on 25 March a huge bronze plaque in Memorial Circle at Ft. Bliss, Tex. Maj. Gen. William C. Chase, USA, former Division Commander and now Chief of Staff of Third Army, extolled the division's combat record. Maj. Gen. Innis P. Swift, USA-Ret., who took the Division overseas in May 1943, spoke glowingly of the Cavalrymen turned foot soldiers, and dedicated the memorial. It was accepted by Maj. Gen. John L. Homer, USA, Commanding General of the Guided Missile Center at Ft. Bliss, on behalf of the Department of the Army.

Following the unveiling of the memorial, a wreath was placed thereon by Mrs. Royce A. Drake of Corpus Christi, Tex., widow of Colonel Drake, C.O. of 5th Cavalry, who was killed on the third day of battle at Leyte and for whom Camp Drake, Tokyo, is named. Honoring the occasion by their presence were: General Jonathan M. Wainwright, USA-Ret., former Commander of the 1st Brigade; Lt. Gen. Charles P. Hall, USA-Ret., XI Corps Commander; Maj. Gen. Terry de la M. Allen, USA-Ret.; Brig. Gen. Hugh F. T. Hoffman, USA, Chief of Staff of Fourth Army; Brig. Gen. David W. Hutchison, Commanding General of Biggs AFB; Brig. Gen. Rex E. Chandler, USA-Ret.; Col. O. I. Holman, USA, Aide to General Wainwright, and scores of other retired service personnel in the southwest.

Foreign Affairs—Back from The Hague where they participated in high-level Atlantic Pact conferences Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson and General Omar N. Bradley, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, expressed themselves as encouraged over the progress achieved in planning the defense of western democracies against aggression.

However, General Bradley said it would be a mistake to assume that the Atlantic Pact had already assured the security of Western Europe. While the defenses of most of the Atlantic Pact countries today exist largely on paper a working agreement has been reached by which the collective military capabilities will be steadily improved.

The conferences at The Hague were attended by military leaders and defense ministers of the nations of the Atlantic Alliance. There was unanimous agreement on the over-all strategic plan for the defense of these countries and a close understanding of the military potentialities of the democracies.

Both Secretary Johnson and Gen. Bradley urged the people of America to play a leading role in making the Atlantic Pact an effective instrument for the protection of the West against aggression. For the present the role of the United States will be largely that of supplying much of the military equipment needed for the rearmament of Western Europe.

The first vessel to carry American weapons for the rearmament of Italy was loaded at Brooklyn this week. A miscellaneous cargo of military equipment, ranging from small arms to 155 mm howitzers, was placed aboard the SS Exilona, an American merchant ship. It will dock at an unannounced Italian port.

In addition to the shipment for Italy a quantity of military supplies was loaded on another vessel bound for France. The first American planes transferred to France under the rearmament program arrived at Bizerte in Tunisia on the French carrier Dixmude, and were unloaded by naval personnel without incident. A hostile Communist demonstration which had been threatened failed to materialize.

Transfers of other arms and equipment, including planes and warships, from the United States to Western European countries under the current billion-dollar program are expected to be completed within the next three months. Inter-Allied military committees are now studying the armament requirements of Atlantic Pact countries for the coming fiscal year. The National Budget carries a tentative item of $1.1 billion as the United States contribution to European rearmament for next year. Secretary Johnson is confident that this amount will be sufficient.

In an address in London on Tuesday before the Pilgrims of Great Britain Mr. John J. McCloy, American High Commissioner for Germany, urged that Germany be immediately admitted to full partnership with other Western European states. He said that Russia was using Nazi methods to "subjugate Germany into vassalage." He said that the Allies should act promptly to defeat the long-range plot of Russia to Communize all Germany. He emphasized the necessity for creating an effective European union in which Germany should play a full part.

Mr. McCloy outlined a program for Germany which would include consideration of the unity of Europe, rehabilitation of German economy, organization of Europe to prevent possible future German aggression, and means by which German youth may hope to create a free society. The address was particularly significant, since Mr. McCloy has only recently returned to Europe after conferring with the President and Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

At the same time the government of Holland advocated the arming of Western Germany for self-defense and to aid in European security. These suggestions follow closely recent proposals of Winston Churchill along the same lines. Undoubtedly they will be discussed at the foreign ministers' conference in London next month.

In Berlin Maj. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, American commandant, announced the organization of an Allied general staff to function in an emergency for the protection of the western sectors of the city. The American commander said the need for the organization was made evident by the attitude of the Communists in the Soviet sector of Berlin.

Some time ago Communists threatened that an invasion of West Berlin would take place during 27-30 May, when half a million Communist youths are to meet in the city. Allied commanders have informed the Russians that the Red youths would be kept out of the western sectors. The well-organized German police, under Allied control, are expected to be able to cope with the situation, but troops will be available, if needed.

Chinese nationalists in Hainan this week noisily celebrated their repulse of repeated Red efforts to invade the island. Allowing for the usual overstatements it appears that the nationalists have been at least temporarily successful in preventing Communist troops from securing and retaining a beachhead.

Reports disclose that for the first time nationalists have encountered resistance in the air. Nationalist planes were shot down by unidentified fighter aircraft, presumably Russian. At the same time reports are current that large numbers of Russians wearing Chinese Communist uniforms have been seen in Shanghai and other ports, indicating the presence of Soviet technicians and military advisers.

National Guard—Termination of a "freeze" on promotion of warrant officers and the expansion of junior grade warrant officer procurement in the Army National Guard are provided for in new policies authorized by the Department of the Army. Maj. Gen. Kenneth F. Cramer, Chief of the National Guard Bureau, said that appointment and promotion of National Guard warrant officers will be made within the four grades established under the Career Compensation Act of 1949. New provisions for the appointment of warrant officers, junior grade, in the initial pay grade (W-1) will expand the field for such appointments among veterans and members of the National Guard, he said. Recent modification of tables of organization more than doubled the total allotment of warrant officers authorized the Army Guard, from 3,284 to 7,471.

Disability Retirement—The President is expected to receive early next week final drafts of two Executive Orders pertaining to payments, hospitalization and re-examination of military personnel retired for physical disability, following final Department of Justice clearance of technical language. It is reported, without confirmation, that the order relating to pay and hospitalization of those retired for physical disability will make the Services responsible, except that the Veterans Administration will be charged with the medical care of those suffering from chronic illnesses, such as tuberculosis and neuro-psychiatric cases. The hospitalization issue has been a source of prolonged controversy among the Bureau of the Budget, Department of Defense, and Veterans Administration. Promulgation of the Executive Orders, probably next week, will make possible rapid implementation of the disability retirement provisions of the Career Compensation Act, notably Section 414(b) and Section 411.

New Air Secretary and Defense—While the views of Thomas K. Finletter, named this week by President Truman to be the new Secretary of the Air Force, regarding a 70-group Air Force are widely known, there is generally less appreciation of his overall comprehension of defense requirements, particularly with regard to the needs of the Army and Navy. As chairman of the President's Air Policy Commission in 1947, Mr. Finletter was the prime signatory of a provocative report whose major conclusion was that "the minimum force necessary at the present time is an Air Force composed of 12,400 modern planes, (6,869 front line aircraft) organized into 70 combat groups and 22 special squadrons, supplemented by 27 National Guard groups and 34 groups of Air Reserve."

But this skilled report was characterized also by more generalized comments on national defense. At a time when economy is in vogue and defense forces are being pared, it is well to recall the Commission's forthright declaration that "Self-preservation comes ahead of economy. No concession should be made from the principle that our Military Establishment must be adequate for the defense of the country. . . . Economies, desirable as they are, must not be made if making them would jeopardize our safety."

The report maintains that the nation's security must be based on the Air Force and Naval aviation, but warns that an adequate Navy and Ground Force must be maintained. "We are impressed with the need for a proper balance between the three Services," said Mr. Finletter.

With regard to the naval air arm, Mr. Finletter's group said the Navy will have a large share of the responsibility for establishing the troops and air forces at advanced bases. "Until the shore based establishment can become effective, carrier aviation must be relied upon. The problem of keeping open the supply lines to these bases through submarine infested waters also is one of the important missions of the Navy. . . . The carrier has become the major ship—the battleship is now only of secondary importance," the report observes.

It says that the Navy requires 5,793 front-line planes, plus about 5,100 in support. Recent Congressional testimony has indicated that the President's budget provides for only 4,085 combatant aircraft. The report, prophetic in that it presages contemporary statements of worried top-ranking officials, declares that unless the rate of procurement of new planes is increased the nation must "face the danger of seeing our great carriers tied to the docks because of the lack of planes."

Secretary Johnson Busy Speaker—During his first year in office, Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson delivered 35 speeches, according to an official summation made this week. His first address on 4 April 1949 was made at the Commissioning of the USS Roanoke at Philadelphia. The last of the first-year oratory was delivered 20 March at Andrews AFB, Washington, D. C., in connection with the flight of four B-29's to England under the Military Defense Assistance Program.

June 1949 was the busiest speech-making month for the Defense Secretary. He delivered addresses on 2, 3, 4, 12, 21 and 29 June.

Fifty-Mission Hats—The Air Force campaign to obtain strict standardization in the wearing of the new uniform has resulted in a new edict at Scott AFB, Ill. Henceforth, "Fifty-Mission" hats found in club cloakrooms and anywhere else will be confiscated by the Inspector General and turned in to the base adjutant.

Student is Teacher—First Lt. Edwin G. Triner is an Air Force officer who gets things done at jet speed. On 8 Aug. 1949 he began basic pilot training at Randolph AFB, Tex. Six weeks later, he completed requirements for the seventh-month course. He was sent then to Las Vegas AFB, Nev., where he zoomed through the five months' advanced pilot training course in eight weeks. Back to Randolph AFB came the speedy lieutenant for enrollment in the Central Instructors School, from which he was graduated in three weeks.

His basic training class was in need of an additional instructor, so Lieutenant Triner was returned to his original student training unit—this time as an instructor.

And that wasn't all he accomplished. Lieutenant Triner obtained a three-day pass, flew to Los Angeles, Calif., and was married on 11 Feb. to the former Miss Ernestine Rudiak.

How did he go through the training courses so rapidly? During the war he was a Marine Corps pilot from 1942 to 1945 and from 1945 to 1949 he attended the U. S. Military Academy.

President at Infantry Center—President Truman will arrive at Ft. Benning, Ga., 21 April to review the Third Infantry Division and witness two Infantry School demonstrations. The April Joint Orientation Conference will visit the Infantry Center 19-21 April. During the same period, in addition to the Joint Orientation Conference, the following groups will visit Ft. Benning to view Infantry demonstrations by the Infantry School: Armed Forces Staff College, 200; Air Command and Staff College, 484; Military Police School, 50; Research and Development Group, 13.

Army Finance Department—Lt. Col. John C. Lackas, Assistant Commandant of the Army Finance School, St. Louis, Mo., was on temporary duty at Ft. Belvoir, Va., last week in connection with the planning stage of "Log X-50." Lt. Col. Richard O. Brown, FD, on leave from the Army Finance Center, St. Louis, was a visitor in the Office Chief of Finance last week.

Armed Forces Institute of Pathology—The Scientific Advisory Board of the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology held its sixth meeting at that institution 31 March. Dr. Shields Warren, interim Medical Director, Atomic Energy Commission, and Chief Pathologist, Deaconess Hospital, Boston, Mass., was elected chairman for the year, replacing Dr. Howard Karsner, consultant on research to the Surgeon General of the Navy. Discussed at the meeting were plans for the new Armed Forces Institute of Pathology building, the status of integration of the Navy and Air Force into the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology, and plans for long range problems.

Attending for the Army were Maj. Gen. R. W. Bliss, The Surgeon General, Brig. Gen. Raymond O. Dart, Director, Armed Forces Institute of Pathology, and Col. Elbert DeCoursey, Commandant, Army Medical Department Research and Graduate School, Army Medical Center. Representing the Navy were Rear Adm. Arthur Greaves, Military Sea Transport Service, and Capt. William M. Silliphant, Naval Medical School. The Air Force was represented by Col. John F. Dominick, Office of the Surgeon General.

SERVICE SOCIAL NEWS

HARD on the heels of Lt. Gen. Sir Frank E. W. Simpson, Britain's general officer commander in chief of the Western Command, now in Washington, came the Prime Minister of North Ireland, Sir Basil Brooke, who arrived Wednesday. The next day Fleet Admiral Lord Bruce Fraser, G.C.B., K.B.E., first sea lord and chief of the Naval Staff of the British Royal Navy, arrived.

Monday while General Simpson was being entertained at luncheon by Lt. Gen. Harold Bull, Commandant of the National War College, Lady Simpson lunched with Mrs. Floyd Parks, wife of General Parks, Chief of Information, USA, at Fort Myer.

Mrs. J. Lawton Collins, wife of the Chief of Staff of the Army, was in the group asked to meet the visitor and others were Mrs. Wade Haislip, Mrs. Alfred M. Gruenther, Mrs. J. E. Hull, Mrs. Harold Bull, Mrs. Basil Manly, Mrs. Clovis Byers and Miss Agnes Wark.

Lt. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, who is Deputy Chief of Staff for Plans and Combat, is the exchange officer going to England in the same capacity as General Simpson. With Mrs. Gruenther he will leave Washington the latter part of May and his schedule includes a lecture at Sandhurst Royal Military College, one at Camberley and a third at the Imperial Defense College.

The Commandant of the Coast Guard and Mrs. Merlin O'Neill were hosts Monday at a reception in honor of officers of the Coast Guard cutter, Mackinac, and their wives.

Ensign Richard T. Penn, jr., who will marry their daughter, Patricia, in June, is one of the officers. The other honor guests were Comdr. and Mrs. W. L. Maloney, Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. W. L. Morrison, Lt. and Mrs. J. P. Dayton, Lt. (jg) and Mrs. J. G. Molosic, Lt. (jg) and Mrs. L. J. Knight, Lt. (jg) R. R. Hagan, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Lessey and Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Wilson.

Lt. Gen. and Mrs. Thomas B. Larkin entertained at a tea on 2 April following the christening of their first grandson, Robert E. Rochfort, jr., son of Lt. and Mrs. Rochfort. The christening took place in the Chapel at Ft. Myer, Va., and Capt. Ernest T. Pearsall officiated.

"Air Force Wives, Their Vital Role in Peace and War" will be the subject of a talk given by General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Chief of Staff, USAF, to members of the Air Force Officers Wives Club of Washington at a regular luncheon meeting to be held at the Army-Navy Country Club Wednesday, 12 April, at 12:30 p.m. This is the first time that General Vandenberg has addressed this organization for which Mrs. Vandenberg has been a most active and participating Honorary President for the past two years.

Also presented at this meeting which will be presided over by Mrs. Merrill D. Burnside, club president, will be all annual committee reports. Mrs. Idwal H. Edwards, nominating chairman, will introduce the slate for the election of off-cers to be held in May. Annual allocation of club funds will be voted, including the amount raised by this organization's Spring Fair given 8 March to decorate, furnish and endow the library at the Soldiers, Sailors, Marines, and Airmen's Club of Washington and for the AFOWC's own Personal Service Fund.

Carrying out the South Sea motif, these Navy juniors will sell leis at the Navy Ball next Friday, 14 April, in the Sail Loft, Navy Yard, Washington, D. C. Left to right: Miss Leigh Pooler, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Louis G. Pooler; Miss Diane Deitrich, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. N. K. Deitrich, and Constance Wev, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. B. N. Wev. These leis they will sell are to be flown from Hawaii by Pan American Airways as a contribution to the Navy Relief Affair.

Reservations for the 12 April meeting may be made before noon 10 April with Mrs. C. L. Munroe, Membership Chairman, at Temple 6254, or Mrs. Wm. J. Lookadoo, Corresponding Secretary, at Jo 2-8400, or with Mrs. S. D. Grubbs, jr., Nursery Chairman, (who will also take nursery reservations for the meeting) at Jo 2-9000.

The following honorary members of the club expect to be present for the April luncheon: Mrs. Carl Spaatz, Mrs. W. Stuart Symington, Mrs. Eugene Zuckert, Mrs. H. C. Stuart, Mrs. Omar Bradley, and Mrs. Wm. Pope Anderson III.

On 18 Apr. Schleissners of Baltimore will present a style show for members of the Post Graduate Wives' Club of the U. S. Naval Academy and their guests. The show will be presented in the auditorium at the Post Graduate School at 7:30. Tickets may be obtained from members, or at the door.

Thanks to Pan-American World Airways, guests at the Navy Relief Ball this year will be able to wear fresh fragrant Hawaiian leis and will dance among a myriad of spectacularly beautiful torch ginger, antherium, birds of paradise and other tropical flowers for which the islands are famous. The Ball will be held the evening of 13 April in the Sail Loft at the Navy Yard, Washington, D. C.

The leis and flowers, many of which will be donated by officers and civilians in Hawaii, will be flown to the Mainland by Pan-American as their contribution to Navy Relief. To insure freshness, the flowers will be picked less than 48 hours before the Ball and placed immediately in special refrigerator containers for the flight across the Pacific to the Mainland. They will arrive in Washington just in time to be unpacked for the gala event.

The island flowers, which add so much to any occasion, will be particularly appropriate this year since the theme of the Ball will be "South Pacific." All decorations and entertainment will be in this motif.

It was through Mrs. T. A. Solberg, Chairman of the Concessions Committee, that arrangements to fly the flowers were made. Assisting her at the Ball will be a bevy of beautiful young ladies, daughters of Navy and Marine officers in the Washington area.

Mrs. William F. Due of No. 1, Staff Post, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., complimented her daughter, Dorita, on her 15th birthday, 28 March, with a graduation tea for 70 guests at the Fourth Army Officers' Club from 4 to 6 p.m. Dorita is a member of the 1950 graduation class of Incarnate Word High School.

The table flowers were a beautiful pink gladioli arrangement with silver streamers that held miniature diplomas. The class colors are pink and silver and all decorations were in the class colors. Dorita wore a blue dress that complimented her blue eyes. She wore a gardenia corsage. Gardenia is the class flower. Mrs. David Liston and Mrs. H. F. Patterson assisted in the serving. Dixie and Dana Due were in charge of the guest book.

Wives of the Army-Navy Signal Corps officers met for their Easter season bridge luncheon 4 April at the Army-Navy Country Club. Mrs. Rafael Cleveland cleverly handpainted yellow chick cards for identification purposes. Table decorations were exciting white bunnies carrying raised umbrellas down lanes of chicks emerging from their shells. Low curly bowls of yellow daffodils and pussywillow interspersed with tall golden tapers added gaiety to the tables.

Mrs. Alfred M. Shearer, chairman of arrangements, was assisted by Mrs. Robert Angster, Mrs. Eugene Elder, Mrs. Wayne Jefferson, Mrs. James H. Schofield, and Mrs. James S. Willis.

Mrs. Kirke B. Lawton presided over the business meeting. Mrs. Spencer B. Akin, wife of the Chief Signal Officer, discussed plans for the old-fashioned dance the officers' wives are giving the night of 15 April at Ft. Myer gymnasium for the benefit of endowing a room at the Soldiers, Sailors, Marines and Airmen's Club, honoring the Signal Corps enlisted men.

The party is being directed by the chairman, Mrs. Frances C. Bowen, and a large committee. Square dancing will be featured with a program of specialty dancing; the "Can-Can" chorus, directed by Mrs. Dayton W. Eddy; a barber shop quartet composed of Majors Walter H. Cook, Melvin M. Lawson, William C. Goldiday, and Capt. Dougherty Smith; a surprise specialty by Mrs. Louis G. Tauser and Maj. Gilbert F. Woods. Door prizes will be given. Mrs. James S. Willis and Mrs. David P. Gibbs will serve from booths homemade cookies, cakes, candy, doughnuts, hot-dogs and coffee. Tickets costing $2.50 a couple will pay for everything but the refreshments.

Mrs. Akin also reported tickets are selling fast, reminding the wives to urge early purchasing of tickets. Maj. Gen. F. H. Lanahan, jr., Commanding General of the Signal Center and Ft. Monmouth, N. J., and Mrs. Lanahan will be the guests of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Spencer B. Akin in their box. Gen. and Mrs. Herman have reserved a square. Admiral O'Neill of the Coast Guard has reserved two squares and Col. and Mrs. John B. Goodell one square. Also Col. and Mrs. Homer Case have reserved a square. Mrs. Arthur E. Mickelsen is ticket chairman. Information regarding the dance can be obtained by calling Republic 6700, Extension 2056 or 6828.

The Armed Forces Hostess Association offers valuable assistance to the Service newcomers arriving in Washington. This organization, already well equipped with active lists of such aids as good schools, baby sitters, nurses and other important information, has added a new service—that of summer camps. Parents who are uncertain as to where they may safely send their children to camp may call the Hostesses' office in the Pentagon, extension 73180, for information about those well recommended.

The Association needs more Assistant Hostesses. Although there are now almost 600 of them, still it wishes to reach the whole Washington area and its vicinities. To do that, it needs hostesses in all sections. The work of a hostess requires very little time, less effort and no cost whatever, except a neighborly spirit.

The Ninth Annual House and Embassy Tour for the benefit of the Washington Home for Incurables will take place today (Saturday 8 April).

Wives of Army, Navy and Air Force Officers are taking turns serving as hostesses and guides in three of the ten places that will be open. The Air Force wives will be at the home of the Honorable William C. Bullitt. Mrs. Carl Spaatz and Mrs. Robert G. Ervin are co-chairmen there and will be assisted by Mrs. W. Stuart Symington, Mrs. Harold Stewart, Mrs. Eugene M. Zuckert, Mrs. Hoyt S. T. Vandenberg, Mrs. Joseph T. McNarney, Mrs. Idwal H. Edwards, Mrs. Lauris Norstad, Mrs. Laurence S. Kuter, Mrs. Pierpont Hamilton Morgan, Mrs. Harry Armstrong, Mrs. William McKee, Mrs. Richard Lindsay, Mrs. Patrick Timberlake, Mrs. Samuel E. Anderson, Mrs. Frank Everest, Mrs. Richard E. Nugent, and Mrs. Eugene L. Ubank.

Army wives will be at the Embassy of Afghanistan. Mrs. George C. Beach and Mrs. Virgil Petersen will be co-chairmen, and will be assisted by Mrs. J. Lawton Collins, Mrs. Edward H. Brooks, Mrs. Wade Haislip, Mrs. Raymond S. McLain, Mrs. LeRoy Irwin, Mrs. Floyd L. Parks, Mrs. William Rose, Mrs. Leven C. Allen, Mrs. Clark L. Russner, Mrs. John Greely, Mrs. Franklin Babcock, Mrs. James E. Moore, and Mrs. C. V. R. Schuyler.

Navy wives will be at the home of the Honorable Frances P. Bolton, Congresswoman from Ohio. Mrs. Samuel W. DuBois and Mrs. Carl Espe will be co-chairmen, and will be assisted by Mrs. Linde Dupy McCormick, Mrs. C. Lee Conner, Mrs. George Anderson, Mrs. John Lockwood, Mrs. David Clark, Mrs. Victor Barringer, Mrs. James Maher, Mrs. Reed T. Roberts, Mrs. John Roper, Mrs. Howard Orem, Mrs. George A. Sinclair, Mrs. Todd Singleton, Mrs. Neil K. Dietrich, Mrs. William Parsons, Mrs. Carlton R. Todd, Mrs. Webster Gokey, Mrs. Wallis F. Petersen, Mrs. Ralph Alexander, Mrs. B. B. Nichol, Mrs. K. H. Noble, and Mrs. Clarence Olsen.

son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Madden of Omaha, Nebr.

Miss Nancy Clement graduated from Hannah More Academy, Reisterstown, Md., in 1948. She attended Holton Arms Junior College, Washington, D. C., and is now a student at San Diego State College.

Dr. Madden is a graduate of Creighton University where he attained his Bachelor of Science degree in 1946 and Doctor of Medicine in 1948. He is a member of Phi Rho Sigma medical fraternity.

The wedding will take place in June at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif.

General Clement assumed command of the Marine Corps Recruit Depot at San Diego in September, 1949, after having served two years as Director of Reserves, Marine Corps Headquarters, in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Stanley L. Scott, wife of the Commanding General, United States Army, Alaska, left Ft. Richardson 24 March via USS Frederick Funston for Dallas, Tex., to attend the marriage of their son, William B. Scott, 23 April.

The bride-elect, Eleanor Lasater, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Lasater of Mineral Springs, Texas. Miss Lasater is a graduate of the University of Texas and is a member of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

Maj. Gen. Stanley L. Scott will leave by air about 15 April to attend the wedding.

2d Lt. Marjorie A. Laskey was married to 1st Lt. Chester Kalota, USAF, 18 Feb. at Las Cruces, N. M.

2d Lt. Patty Griffin and 2d Lt. J. Bertia, both of William Beaumont General Hospital, Tex., attended the bridal couple.

Lieutenant Kalota is on duty with the Second Strategic Support Squadron at Biggs AFB, Tex. He was a bombardier with the 20th Air Force during the war and won his pilot wings in February 1949.

Capt. Charles W. Crawford, USN-Ret., and Mrs. Crawford of 110 West Strong St., Pensacola, Fla., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Shirley Semmes, to Ens. Charles John Youngblade, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Youngblade of Sioux City, Iowa.

Miss Crawford attended the University of Alabama. Ens. Youngblade attended Iowa State University and was graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy in the class of 1949. At present, he is undergoing flight training at Saufley Field.

The wedding will take place in June.

Mrs. Bruce M. Mossman of South Hadley, Mass., announces the engagement of her daughter, Irene, to Oliver Wolcott Parmly, Cadet, U. S. Military Academy, son of Col. and Mrs. Eleazar Parmly III, (Ret.), of San Antonio, Tex., and grandson of Mrs. Elvin R. Heiberg, sr., of Washington, D. C.

Miss Mossman is attending Green Mountain Junior College, Poultney, Vt., and will graduate in June. Cadet Parmly will graduate from the Military Academy in June. The wedding is planned to be held in Holyoke, Mass., early in July.

Cadet Parmly's father graduated from the Academy in 1924, and his brother, E. Parmly IV, graduated in the class of 1946. His grandfather, the late Elvin R. Heiberg, was a graduate of the class of 1896, and two uncles graduated in November, 1918 and 1926, now Col. H. H. D. Heiberg and Col. E. R. Heiberg, respectively. The son of Col. H. H. D. Heiberg was a classmate of Cadet Parmly's brother.

On 20 March, at St. Peter's Episcopal Church, St. Petersburg, Fla., Miss Charlotte June Cox became the bride of Lt. Richard Byrd Minor, USAF. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Lee Cox of Boston, Mass., and St. Petersburg. Lieutenant Minor is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Joe Minor of Nashville, Tenn.

The bride was given in marriage by Mr. Charles Jackson Reynolds. She wore a wheat-colored dressmaker suit, a natural straw hat trimmed with cocoa brown veiling, with brown accessories, and she carried a white prayerbook topped with a cluster of brown orchids.

Miss Juanita Duke was maid of honor. Dr. Minor was his son's best man.

Following a wedding trip, the couple will be at home at 1226 Clairmont Ave., Decatur, Ga., where they will live while Lt. Minor is doing graduate work in aeronautical engineering at Georgia School of Technology.

Lt. Minor graduated from Wallace University School in Nashville and attended Vanderbilt University. He graduated from the U. S. Military Academy in the class of 1945. The bride is a graduate of the School of Practical Arts, Boston, Mass.

Vital to Every Army Officer!

In this issue of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL, we continue publication of the permanent promotion list, standing of all Regular Army general officers. Colonels, and lieutenant colonels were printed last week; majors are printed in this issue. Additional increments of that list will be published from week to week until the entire Army Promotion List and the promotion standings of those on the special lists, such as Medical, Chaplain, Judge Advocates, etc., have been printed.

Because these lists are of special value to every officer of the Army, we urge that these issues be preserved for future reference.

Production Recovery

Industrial production which slumped in February made a good recovery in March, according to the summary of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve Board. Personal income was at a new high as Government insurance dividend payments to veterans reached a total of more than $2 billion by the end of the month.

Department store sales showed the usual seasonal rise, with demands for durable consumer goods, such as refrigerators and television sets, particularly strong. Automobile sales increased and are now about on a level with production, which is curtailed somewhat by labor disputes.

The Board reports that the volume of construction work done and contracts awarded reached exceptionally high levels for this season. Increased construction activity stimulated output of furniture and building materials. Lumber production this year is about 25 per cent above the low level of a year ago.

Because of the shortage of coal, steel production at the beginning of March was only 74 per cent of rated capacity. However, at the close of the month, with the settlement of the coal strike, the output had risen to 97 per cent.

The Bureau of the Census this week reported that there were 561,000 more employed in March than in February. While the number of jobless is still high, the improvement in the labor situation during the month was greater than had been forecast.

MERCHANT MARINE

Military Ship Transport

The National Federation of American Shipping, through its president, Frazer Bailey, has told a Senate Merchant Marine subcommittee that "all traffic which can be transported in commercial type vessels" be taken away from the Armed Forces and be given to commercial carriers.

"If the national policy is to follow a line of aiding the private American shipping fleet by making available to it all traffic of a character which it can advantageously handle," said Mr. Bailey, "we suggest as the first move the prompt retirement of all cargo vessels operated by the Armed Services carrying cargo which can be satisfactorily handled by private carriers over routes and in territory serviced by such private companies."

Mr. Bailey emphasized in his testimony that "there is no more important element in military support of the Armed Forces in wartime than the availability of an adequate supply of privately-owned U. S. flag tankers. Insurance that such an adequate supply of tankers will be available," continued Mr. Bailey, "can best be obtained by maximum Government support for the maintenance and successful operation by private industry during peacetime."

He said with regard to passenger vessels that "it would be hoped and expected that the transportation of all personnel under the control or influence of the Armed Forces, other than officers and enlisted men for which private shipping space may not be available, would be by commercial passenger vessels."

Tex, son of Mr & Mrs John Kalota of Detroit, Mich.

POSTS AND STATIONS

MONTEREY, CALIF. John F. Floberg, recently appointed Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air, made an inspection tour of naval installations in the Monterey area, visiting the Naval School and the Naval Auxiliary Air Station, 29 March. He was accompanied by high ranking naval air officers.

Mr. Floberg and his party were met by Capt. T. J. Casey, Commanding Officer of the Naval School, and by Capt. H. T. Stanley, Commanding Officer of the Air Station.

EVERETT, WASH. The Officers Wives' Club held a very successful Monte Carlo party recently at the Strato Club, the former Officers Club at Palne Field. This party was given to raise funds to redecorate the Officers Lounge. Mrs. C. D. Vincent was general chairman for the party, ably assisted by Mrs. John Kersch, Mrs. James McNitt, Mrs. Kenneth Proctor, Mrs. William David, Mrs. Gil Taylor, Mrs. R. C. Calkins, Mrs. Frank Muligan, Mrs. Sydney Chesler, Mrs. Robert Delaney and Mrs. Wm. Fellenbaum. For entertainment there were all sorts of games of chance, bingo, raffles, door prizes and a cake sale. Guests came in Western garb and the chuck wagon offered hot dogs and baked beans.

The Officers Wives' Club is now sponsoring a collection of clothing for Overseas Relief and is working directly with Women's Clubs overseas. The April meeting of the Officers Wives' Club will be held at the home of Mrs. John Kersch at Palne Field when the ladies of the 635th A. C. & W. Sq. will entertain with a bridge tea.

LETTERMAN GENERAL HOSP., CALIF. The monthly Ladies' Bridge Luncheon was held 21 March. Mrs. Conn L. Milburn and Mrs. Wm. R. Haas were co-chairmen. A delicious lunch was served followed by bridge. A special attraction was a Flower Arrangement Demonstration given by Mrs. Allen, from the Adult Education Division of the San Francisco City Schools.

NEWPORT, R. I. Bernard M. Baruch, who addressed the staff and students of the Naval War College, Newport, on 31 March on global strategy in time of peace, was the dinner guest of the president of the War College, Vice Adm. Donald B. Beary, and Mrs. Beary the previous evening.

LACKLAND AFB, TEX. Fully 300 candidates of the United States Officer Candidate School, members of their families and ladies attended the first recognition dinner-dance 31 March in connection with the opening of the new Officer Candidate School Club at Lackland. The affair was held in honor of the 50-A class and the first upper and lower class system of the school since 1947. Guests on the receiving line included Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Charles W. Lawrence, School Commandant and Lackland's Commanding General; Col. and Mrs. Paul L. Barton; Maj. and Mrs. Hugh D. Young, Officer Candidate Col. Harry A. Gordon, Jr., and Col. and Mrs. Robert J.

Gibbons, Executive Officer of Keesler AFB, and house guest of General and Mrs. Lawrence.

SAN DIEGO, CALIF. Capt. and Mrs. R. L. Weir entertained with a large cocktail party in their Coronado home on 25 March. At this time Mrs. Weir introduced her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. S. Pendleton, of Altadena; Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Archer, of Glendale, her brother-in-law and sister, and Dr. Paul J. Weir, of Dickinson, N. D., Captain Weir's brother, all of whom were house guests of the Weirs. The guest list included: Vice Adm. and Mrs. T. L. Sprague, Rear Adms. and Mmes. Frank Akers, John Hoskins, Paul Albright, Laurence DuBose, Oscar A. Weller, Clifton Sprague, Capt. and Mmes. R. D. Mackey, Frank Hagler, John Korb, Thomas Hays, Alma Smith, Paul M. Hoot, Lynn Hart, Earl Evans, John S. Terry, Jos. Tartre, W. F. James, Frank Richison, V. B. Riden, Jerry Misler, Ralph Taylor, John C. Parham, Glenn Berry, Jos. A. Connolly, A. S. Freedman, Bruce Leamer, Mrs. W. F. Boone, Comdr. and Mrs. Kermit Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Roberts, Dns. and Mmes. C. C. Latham, Jos. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph West and Mrs. Susan Waters.

ANNAPOLIS, MD. Vice Adm. Harry W. Hill was a guest at the dinner given at the Maryland Club in Baltimore last week by the Society of Colonial Wars. Admiral Hill will succeed Adm. Holloway as superintendent of the Naval Academy the latter part of April.

Capt. and Mrs. E. P. Huff entertained Sunday at a small cocktail party in honor of Mrs. Albert Penn, widow of Rear Adm. Penn, who is their house guest. Comdr. James M. Doyle entertained at a cocktail party last Monday at his home on Cornhill St. Among the guests were Capt. and Mrs. C. C. Windsor of Washington.

SEATTLE, WASH. The regular monthly meeting of the Naval Officers' Wives' Club was held at the B.O.Q. at Pier 91, 29 March. Mrs. B. B. Cassels, program committee chairman, presented a fashion show sponsored by Helen's Dress Shop of Sand Point Way. The following club members gave a very professional performance of modeling: Mesdames Roy Gilbert, A. E. Buckley, G. F. Galpan, M. J. Lwosey, R. A. Spargo, J. L. Graham, James A. Eastwood and Miss Eleanor Wright.

FORT KNOX, KY. Brig. Gen. Thomas L. Harrold, Assistant Commandant, The Armored School, and Mrs. Harrold entertained at a dinner at the Brick Officers' Club recently. Approximately 60 guests attended the affair including Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Wm. G. Livesay, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Roderick R. Allen, Col. and Mrs. Thomas D. Roberts, Col. and Mrs. H. H. D. Heiberg, and Col. and Mrs. Wilhelm P. Johnson.

The Officers' Wives Music Guild of Fort Knox met at Station KNOX last week. Highlights of the meeting were several selections by Col. and Mrs. Eric H. F. Svensson, a talk by Mrs. Paul M. Crawford, and a discussion of plans for a Music Festival to be held in May.

Mrs. Hiram A. Miller gave a tea in honor of St. Patrick's Day. Mrs. William G. Livesay, Mrs. Roderick R. Allen and Mrs. Peter Rodes poured.

CLARK AFB, PHILIPPINES. A complete Philippine meal and election of officers highlighted the March monthly luncheon of the Officers' Wives' Club. Many of the wives wore the native mestiza costume representing various locales of the island republic, and ranging in color from coral to purple to turquoise added to the festive occasion.

Under the direction of Mrs. Thomas E. Bamford, who stage-managed the whole luncheon, teen-age daughters presented a fashion show displaying the evolution of the Filipino costume. In a close election with a record-breaking vote, Mrs. John H. Camp was chosen club president for the next half-year. Mrs. H. M. Turner, wife of the Commanding General, PHILCOM (AF) and 13th Air Force, will continue as honorary club president. Other wives elected to office were: vice-president, Mrs. Thomas Badger; secretary, Mrs. James D. Larson; treasurer, Mrs. Robert D. Crooks; welcoming committee chairman, Mrs. Walter T. Mesek; social chairman, Mrs. Samuel H. Slaughter; and publicity chairman, Mrs. Earl Jordan.

SHEPARD AFB, TEX. At a recent election of the Officers' Wives' Club, Mrs. A. M. Neel was named President and Mrs. Emil C. Kiel, wife of the commanding general, Honorary President. Other officers who will serve with Mrs. Kiel and Mrs. Neel are Mesdames W. A. Pollock, Vice-President; George H. Moore, Secretary; Thomas E. Duggan, Assistant Secretary; Vernon H. Hunt, Treasurer, and M. R. Cunningham, Assistant Treasurer.

With the elected officers, the following were appointed chairmen of the various committees to complete the Board of Governors of the Club: Mesdames C. L. Stratton, Entertainment Committee; William Travis, Membership Committee; Robert Moore; Hostess Committee; Harry Trimble, Special Activities Committee; Charles Ready, Welfare Committee; and Lewis Gessner, Publicity Committee.
